Mississippi evacuee to call Antioch home as he starts over

Eric Smith* is 21 and until recently he attended Brown University in New Orleans to become a chef. He returned to his hometown of Waveland, Miss., where he lived with his family, before Hurricane Katrina.

He met Gayle Korczyk at the relief center in the Waveland Wal-Mart parking lot. Korczyk was down there as a relief worker.

"We met him at mealtime. He lived out the storm with his family who wanted to stay in Waveland since it was above sea level, unlike New Orleans. Unfortunately, the water rose

Antioch woman feeds the masses in Mississippi disaster area

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Before FEMA and before the Red Cross, an unplanned convergence of individuals and faith-based groups arrived in Waveland, Miss., on the Gulf coast east of New Orleans. Bulldozers had cleared the debris out of the streets and the water had receded. In its wake, Hurricane Katrina took a heavy toll on the residents of this town of about 6,600 people.

One of the first people to arrive was Gayle Korczyk of Antioch. She had tired of sitting and watching the disaster on television and being unable to do anything other than send money.

Without a specific destination I packed up the van with more than $500 worth of fresh fruits and vegetable that I bought, including items to start up a small kitchen," Korczyk said. She went to local businesses to

Retaining wall decision lacked communication

The District 117 school board had a spontaneous discussion last week when they evaluated the addition of a retention wall that had been added near the concession stand.

Board member Dave Dzicki said he was upset that the retaining wall had been installed without any input from him.

Vicki Axton was also upset by the lack of follow-up.

"I suggested the concept but didn't find out until a parent told me it was going up," she said. "It's important to talk to the people who are going to use the structure. The people using it should have input. My point is we all need to do better communicating."

Bill Ahlers, finance director for the district, said he had made the decision in the field for the sake of expediency, so it would be ready in time from homecoming. He had talked to some board members, but not all.

Ahlers apologized for the lack of communication but defended the need for a timely decision. -By Ginny Skweres

Helping the children

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Following a request made to Catholic school administrators by Archbishop Francis Cardinal George to waive tuition and fees for students displaced by Hurricane Katrina, 36 Catholic schools throughout the greater Chicagoland area have enrolled about 100 Gulf-area students tuition-free.

One of those students attended Prince of Peace Catholic School in Lake Villa for several weeks before returning to her home outside of New Orleans.

Two students from New Orleans are currently attending class at St. Gilbert Catholic School in Grayslake.

"The outpouring of support and aid from all of the Catholic schools in the Archdiocese of Chicago can only be termed phenomenal," said Nichols Wolsonovich, superintendent of Catholic schools. "Not only have our schools taken in students affected by Katrina, but the school children have taken it upon themselves to raise almost $100,000 for numerous hurricane relief efforts to aid Catholic dioceses students throughout the Gulf states."

Students displaced by the hurricane have adjusted well to their new environments, said Prince of Peace Principal Mary Lou Cacioppo.

Her school's student has already returned to her home in Louisiana.

"(Our third-grade student) shared her story and was very well accepted by her classmates," she said. "We thoroughly enjoyed her for the few weeks she was here."

Grayslake students, Emily and Matthew Dawes, have also integrated into their new setting well, said St. Gilbert Assistant Principal Christopher Morris. They are eighth-grade and third-grade students respectively.

"They both are doing well as far as assimilation in school goes," he said. "(Emily) is already looking forward to going to class at Carmel High School."

Students and faculty at St. Gilbert have been collecting items for the Dawes family at school and have also been purchasing gifts for them off their registry at Target.

At Prince of Peace a bake sale fundraiser garnered $4,200 for Hurricane Katrina victims.

Morris said it was the decision of the entire Catholic institution as a whole to accept the new students that made the acclimation process so smooth.

"By saying we've adopted this family all the kids here are on board," he said.

For more information about Catholic schools in the Archdiocese of Chicago that have enrolled displaced students tuition free, as well as the numerous Hurricane Katrina relief efforts being conducted at the Catholic elementary and high schools, please visit the Catholic schools Web page at www.archchicago.org.

Sharefest will be Oct. 1

Sharefest, a group of churches working together on community projects have a big one scheduled for Saturday at the Antioch Bandshell on Skidmore Drive off of Orchard Avenue. This year the villages of Lake Villa and Lindenhurst are included. This event had 700 volunteers helping last year and the group expects the same amount this year, according to organizer Diane Powers.

There is a food and clothing drive to benefit the Open Arms Mission and victims of Katrina. They are looking for canned goods and gently used winter clothing.

At the same time the Red Cross will sponsor a blood drive at Antioch Elementary School on Main Street near downtown.

More information is available at www.sharefestcommunity.org.

Gavin Central may be ready for students at mid-semester

By Steve Peterson
Staff Reporter

Gavin School District 37 officials are still hopeful for a January start-up time or in the vicinity for Gavin Central students.

The building has been closed since March 2004 and condemned due to problems with trusses and other structural problems.

"We are awaiting a report from a third party engineer hired by the Lake County Regional Superintendent of Schools. He is looking over the repair plans," said Barb Mende, Gavin School Board president.

Such a report is expected on Oct. 11. Peace Borst is also working the repair plans, on behalf of Gavin.

"Our hope is still to have the building ready for January," Mende said. "Next week we should know if we will be able to meet that deadline."

The district sued Boller Construction and Legat Architects in November, 2004 regarding the defects. A lawsuit with a citizens group has since been settled out of court.

"We're working on a settlement agreement with Legat and Boller," Mende said.

The Gavin Central students now attend Lake Zurich Middle School North's former school on Midlothian Road. The lease with Lake Zurich District 95 lasts through the school year.

"The school is just what the students need. They have got the gym, a cafeteria, a library, all the necessities," Mende said.

Back the Bayou brings in big bucks

Bob McCarty, one of the driving forces behind the concert to raise funds for victims of hurricane Katrina. When asked about the success of the concert, McCarty summed it up in one word.

Fantastic," McCarty said. "We raised over $10,000." He credits all the donations that allowed them to raise the money.

"There was all donated time and talents. Everybody helped. The Lion's Club donated the beer and the Moose Lodge donated the food that was sold.

"People said it was one of the best concerts ever," McCarty said. "People felt good about helping."

Antioch is known as the village of volunteers for a good reason

It's that time of year where craft shows and art fairs often include holiday items. One of the first is the Peddlers Alley Craft Show on Oct. 8 between 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Antioch High School, Main Street and Route 173. It is sponsored by the Parents Amplifying the Fine Arts (AMPS) group. The profits will be used for the band, choir, drama and arts. This will help with the cost of camp and trips that the students take.

At St. Peter's School in Antioch, the Footlights group is looking for those who would like to advertise in the "Footlights Ad Book." Dave Short is the chairman of the group and he can be reached at 847-395-7705 or dshort@ameritech.net

The funds raised by this are extremely important to the St. Peter School community. The benefit and opportunity to pick up books will be on the evenings of Nov. 4 and 5.

Gayle Korczyk of Antioch is hoping to fill truckloads of items to be taken down to Waveland, Miss., one of the areas hardest hit by Hurricane Katrina. She will go back to Waveland in the beginning of November and is willing to transport items for those who are unable to do so themselves. The needs of victims vary depending upon their location. Korczyk is working with those who stayed in the town and want to rebuild it, as opposed to those who have left the destruction behind them. Her story appears elsewhere in the paper.

Those who are concerned about the construction of a banquet hall and restaurant at Bowles Road and Route 59 can relax for a bit longer.

According to Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building, paperwork has not been filed for the next meeting to be held on Oct. 13. It could still be filed at a later date.

Local high school students who have a flair for writing and speaking are encouraged to enter the "Voice of Democracy" competition put on by the VFW. It is a scholarship program open to all high school students and the theme is "How I demonstrate my freedom." Participants are asked to write and then make an audio essay of three to five minutes. There is a chance to win up to a $25,000 scholarship. More information may be available at high schools or through VFW Post 4551 of Antioch.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Ginny Skweres at 847-223-8161, ext. 154 or e-mail, ginny@lakelandmedia.com

Former Antioch resident charged with aggravated criminal assault

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Gerardo M. Garza, 42, formerly of Antioch and now of 1803 Continental Drive in Naperville, was arrested Sept. 23 at a restaurant in Arlington Heights. He was charged with eight counts of aggravated sexual assault on a minor that took place in Antioch, Commander Craig Somerville of the Antioch Police Department said.

jail in lieu of $900,000 bond until he appeared in bond court the next day. The court lowered the bond to $500,000, for which he was able to post 10 percent as his bail. He is out of jail on bail until he appears for a pending court date.

The alleged abuse took place over a nine-year period, and both the new and old evidence were developed. Aggravated sexual abuse is a class one felony, punishable with a term in prison between four and 15 years.

Home Sweet Home has changed

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

When Gayle Korczyk drove her van south and ended up in Waveland, Miss., she knew she was in the right place because she had come to help. When she had driven into town she saw a cabin resting at a cock-eyed angle. She learned that before the storm it had been across the street facing the road. Water had floated it across.

There were cars that had been swept away by floodwaters and when the water receded they were stranded in fields, on different streets, or under a tree. None of the cars would be salvageable, Korczyk said.

If it hadn't been for the lumberjacks from the northwestern states,

Until Katrina came along, a family called this home. All that is recognizable now is the driveway and some of the foundation. The floodwaters had risen higher than the house and it collapsed inward under the weight, just like the other houses in the area.

the roads would have been impassable. They cut the felled trees into logs that could be moved to the side of the road.

Since the water was polluted, the only household items that might be salvageable would be those made of glass, Korczyk said. It's not possible to sanitize things that absorbed water, including photographs.

Brothers arrested for possession and intent to sell cocaine

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Darryl Connor, 25, of 921 Quill Drive, Woodstock and Gerald D. Connor, 27, of 708 Alima Court, Carpentersville, were stopped for a minor traffic violation at 2:42 a.m. Sept. 24. After smelling cannabis, Officer Chuck Smith investigated. He contacted the Law Enforcement Administrative Data Service (LEADS) that indicated Darryl was out on parole. An investigation of the car turned up 21.4 grams of cocaine packaged for sale, a small amount of cannabis and $2,100 cash. He was a self-admitted member of the Vice Lords. He was charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell.

Gerald was charged with obstruction of justice because he gave a false name in an effort to cover up an outstanding warrant in DuPage County. Both were remanded to the Lake County jail until bond court. A court date is pending.

Somerville commended Smith for a very thorough and professional traffic stop.

HELPING HAND

money for it. Antioch's True Value provided bug spray, tarps, matches, charcoal and lighter fluid and also refused money.

Enroute she hooked up with a church group from Joliet that was headed down to help somewhere, but they also had no specific destination in mind.

"I think it was through God, because we met the right people and it got us to Waveland," she said.

"Going into Waveland you could smell death everywhere. It was the worst smell I've ever smelled. The stench was terrible. Waveland, including the sodden Wal-Mart, had been totally beneath water and was a total loss. Water had been higher than telephone poles, she said.

Korczyk, the truck from Joliet, and two ministries from Bastrop, Texas, met with others in the large parking lot of the destroyed Wal-Mart. It was also the headquarters of the Command Post, manned by the National Guard, and they had power washed the parking lot and cleaned it, in order prevent potential illnesses.

Everyone had the same mission Korczyk said, and that was to help people. A couple from Colorado brought a traveling kitchen with them, and everyone got along. They unloaded trucks from everywhere and Florida State Troopers came at night to provide security.

Having worked in kitchens and having a son who was a chef, Korczyk took over the kitchen after she nixed the first night's menu of goulash.

She opted for spaghetti and it was the first hot meal survivors and workers had had in awhile.

"We called ourselves the 'Waveland Relief Team,'" she said and they christened their kitchen and eating area the "New Waveland Café."

One woman wasn't going to get out of her vehicle and come to eat except Korczyk forced the issue. The woman was a diabetic who hadn't eaten in so long her blood sugar level was all wrong. Korczyk took her to the EMTs instead. Later a man wandered in who was very disoriented. He hadn't eaten for 13 days and he was dehydrated. They helped him as well. A doctor and his wife, a nurse, came from Georgia to volunteer their time and talent.

"People would often pass out. It's really hot and humid there. You just sweat like crazy," Korczyk said. "Others came and they didn't know where to start. We were there to help them and we would feed the tummy and the heart and soul. This was a spiritual thing."

"I'm changed forever by seeing people who came and had nothing."

There were markings on the houses. Some indicated the house had to be torn down. Others represented the number that had died in the house, and which search dog had gone in. People had drowned in their own houses. That was hard," Korczyk said. "There was one house that had a dead sea turtle in it. Another had a sea lion that they were able to save."

"I cried because I was sad. I cried because I was happy. And there were times you saw and heard stories and had to try to hold back the tears."

Organizations came with truckloads of foods, she said. People from China sent tents and computers. There was an organization of about 600 farmers who brought a seemingly endless supply of eggs and chickens from somewhere near Madison, Wis., she said.

"It reminded me of when Jesus took the bread and fish, and that's how it made me feel. We just had food and meat."

Korczyk cooked dinner for hundreds of people daily. They fed the survivors, the workers, the police and truck drivers - anyone who was there and needed food. Korczyk was gone for 10 days before she had to return home. There is still much to be done and she will return to Waveland in early November for five or six weeks.

When she goes back, she is willing to take things down for people can't deliver it themselves. In addition to food, fresh and nonperishable, Korczyk said there is a need for baby cribs, formula, laundry detergent, pet food and all sizes of bikes with good tires. There is a large need for all sizes of boxer shorts. It is too warm and humid there to wear another style of underwear, she was told. Soon the survivors will need blankets because winter nights get down to 50 degrees.

For those who want to contact her, the phone number is 847-395-6960. She can also be reached by e-mail at GayleForWaveland@aol.com could come with us. He was afraid, but he came."

When they arrived in the Chicago area at night, Eric, who had seen other large towns, was very impressed.

"Eric was like a little kid looking through the store window of a candy store," Korczyk said. "All he saw was the city lights from the expressway and he was at a loss for words."

The Korczyk family plans to take him to Chicago soon.

With one and a half years of cooking school behind him, Korczyk said Eric is a great cook. He's not yet sure how he'll get his records, arrange his grants and funding, and be able to complete his education.

"He makes the best. That is why he prefers to remain anonymous. Eric doesn't want any special treatment. He just wants to get on with his life."

He is staying with one of Korczyk's neighbors and often visits. He has already found a job, but now needs a car. Korczyk and Eric returned to Antioch on Oct. 19.

LAKE COUNTY

LATE NIGHTS

By Dan Patrick

Area bar owners speak about why it
ain't all about
Chi-town anymore

Dan Lenegar sings with his band, Five Nickel High, as bass player Dan Buckley plays alongside him during a gig at Cue 'N You sports bar in Grayslake.

The night life - so many of us define our social identities with what bars, clubs and random night spots we frequent as we hurtle through the eclectic mix of brash youth and adult responsibility that is the 20's and 30's.

There were always a couple of rules for Lake County residents: 1. Chicago or bust, and 2. If you can't dance or lack an iron liver or if your age is larger than your waist size, don't even bother.

However, according to many area bar owners, you don't have to be 20, 30, 40 or even 50 to have a good time and you certainly don't have to deal with the parking headaches and the $20 drink specials of the Windy City anymore.

Barb Rossmann, General Manager of The Fat Man Inn in Gurnee, said there's plenty to do within the Lake County bar scene without even having to mess with the expressway. Within the area, there are numerous bars and nightclubs for patrons looking for a good time.

"With any of the surrounding bars, first of all, you don't have to deal with the pricing with the gas and the trip down there," Rossmann said. "We've got drink specials like

$1 domestics on Wednesdays and Sundays and you just can't beat those prices. Also, there's enough bars in Lake County and each bar has something different going on. There's enough going on in this area that you don't have to go all the way down to the city to have fun."

Not only do Lake County establishments each offer unique experiences between the different clubs, many of the individual businesses offer a wide range of activities. Grayslake's Cue and You Billiards and Sports Bar has recently been going through a metamorphosis of sorts. While the name evokes images of a smoky pool hall, the club hosts monthly live bands, DJ's with a large dance floor, or if you want to get down with your inner Japanese businessman, the club also has karaoke contests every Sunday.

Please see BAR / B5

Tales from the BAR

The following are stories straight from bartenders living and working in the Lake County area. In order to protect their business and avoid any embarrassment, the bartenders have only been identified by their initials.

"The funniest thing is when guys think they can handle a double-shot of Bacardi 151. There was this one guy when I was bartending and after he took a shot, I looked at him for a split second, picked up an empty pitcher and shoved it underneath his chin just at the right time to catch 'everything.' That was when I was at the top of my bartending game. Anytime you see some guys who think they're so big and hard and they take a shot of that stuff, it's so funny because then their friends end up dragging them out like they're dead."

- L.W.

"I was bartending for a frat party once and one of the 'fratters' was holding a $50 dollar bill. He said to me, 'I know you're a stripper, I'll give you this $50 if you'll take your shirt off.' Right after he said that, he went 'Timber!' and fell to flat on his face and passed out. I took the $50 and stepped on him as I walked away."

- R.F.

"One guy came into the bar and was already drunk the minute he stepped in. Because he was so far gone, we were worried that he might have to be carried out, so all four of our bouncers surrounded him and asked him to leave. As soon as he saw them, he got up and immediately fell to the ground. After he picked himself up, he told the bouncers, 'Don't mess with me, I'm tough!' The guy's wife was sitting next to him and jokingly said, 'Why don't you show them how tough you are,' so he said, 'That's a good idea' as he took off his shirt and started flexing his muscles. He finally got up, but then walked to the middle of the empty dance floor and started discoing without his shirt on. So there he was, doing his best John Travolta with no shirt on and by then, everyone in the bar was laughing at him."

'Memory House' strained at times as it probes life's big issues

By Tom Witom

A moody, unconsolable teen finds herself struggling with a personal identity crisis in Kathleen Tolan's new two-character play, "Memory House," at Victory Gardens Theater.

The 90-minute drama, being remounted after its premiere in April at the Humana Festival of New American Plays at Actors Theatre of Louisville, finds Katia (played by Cassandra Bissell) in emotional free fall.

The querulous high schooler finds herself living in New York with Maggie (Taylor Miller), her divorced stepmother, and confronting not only issues of her adoption but the more complex matters: poverty, hunger and America's increasingly aggressive posture in the world.

Katia vaguely recalls life as a child in an orphanage in Russia and has only fuzzy memories of her natural mother.

But that doesn't keep her from laying a guilt trip on her adoptive parents over their divorce or ranting "I hate this country" while complaining she was crippled by being ripped off from her familial culture.

Bissell plays up the self-focused Katia's agitated state to the hilt. "I don't belong anywhere," she bemoans.

But as the play unfolds and the mother-daughter go-around escalates, a forced, contrived air takes hold.

Cassandra Bissell (left) as Katia and Taylor Miller in a scene from "Memory House" at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater.

Which is too bad, because "Memory House" contains some fine dialogue and fine acting as Sandy Shinner directs.

The play takes place on New Year's Eve, and Maggie, a former dancer-turned-office worker who is more focused on getting through day-to-day struggles, has come home and decided it was time to try her hand at pastry-making. With "The Joy of Cooking" in hand, she rolls out a pie crust (laughing at herself when not everything follows the script), fills it with fresh blueberries and pops it in the oven. Give credit to Robert Martin for the homey set, including working kitchen.

All the while she is prodding Katia to complete a long-delayed essay based on a memory of her choosing. This paper, which has sparked the present discussion, is a requirement for her application to college, and it must be posted by midnight.

In the end, Maggie, a loving, understanding parent, does a good job of getting her daughter to face her nagging insecurities.

Pianist Jorge Federico Osorio, will be the featured soloist on Oct. 21 and Oct. 22.

Marriott Theatre getting ready to cut Footloose

The Marriott Theatre will present Footloose, a hit Broadway musical. Footloose runs through Nov. 27, at Marriott Theatre, 10 Marriott Drive, in Lincolnshire.

When free-spirited Ren moves from Chicago to a conservative small town in the Midwest, he discovers that wide open spaces sometimes come with very narrow minds. The repressive local minister, Reverend Moore, has convinced the town to ban dancing and rock n' roll music. Complications arise when Ren falls in love with Rev. Moore's strong-willed daughter, Ariel.

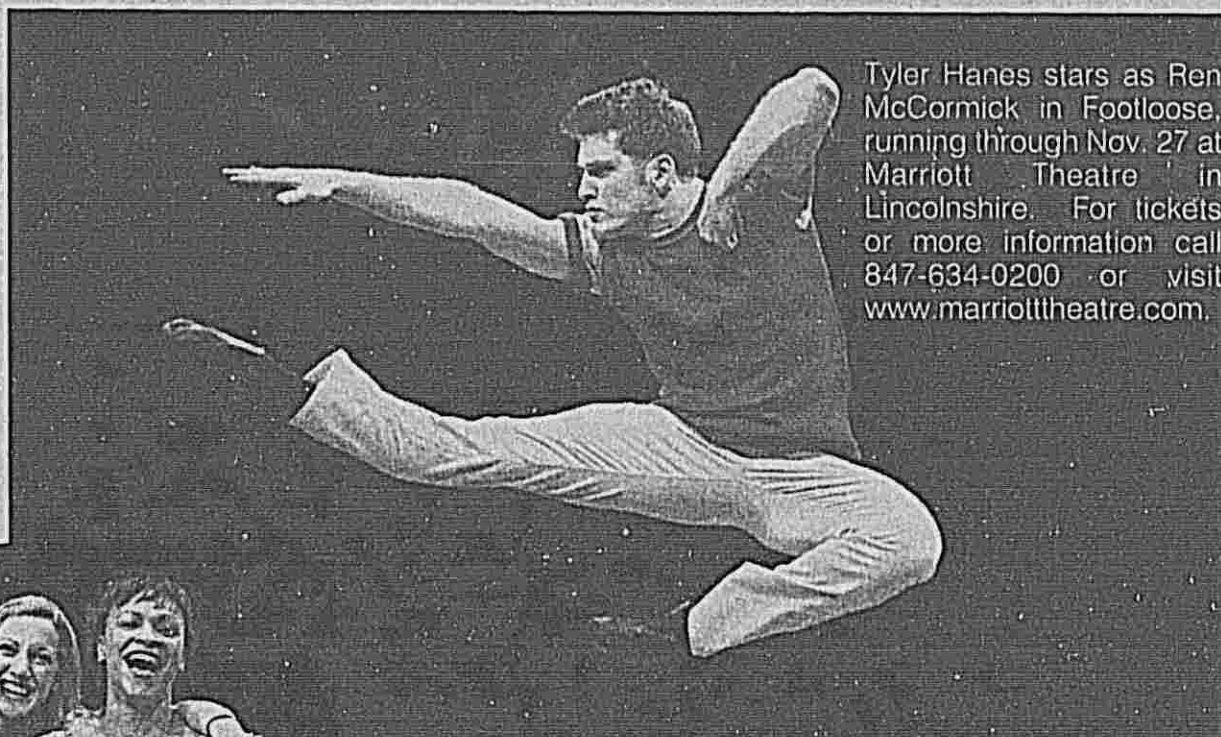

Together they start to stand up for their beliefs and revitalize the spirits of the town, winning over the hearts and souls of the whole community in an effort to make dancing legal again.

A compelling story of teenage rebellion overcoming the misconceptions and fears of adults, Footloose is an inspirational tale about embracing change and celebrating life. The smash musical features electrifying dance sequences and a dazzling hit score including '80s favorites like "Almost Paradise," "Let's Hear it for the Boy," "Holding Out for a Hero," and "Footloose."

Footloose stars Tyler Hanes as Ren, and Megan Reinking as Ariel. Tyler Hanes (Ren) originally hails from Marietta, Ga. and comes directly from the Broadway production of Sweet Charity, starring Christina Applegate. Other credits include Bye Bye Birdie (Encores!), Cinderella (NSMT), and leading roles in Children of Eden, and Tommy.

The artistic team for Footloose is led by award-winning director David H. Bell, with musical direction by Ryan Nelson. Set design is by Thomas M. There's a special art in transforming the magic of Christmas into an unforgettable concert experience, and Jim Brickman turns the songs and spirit of the season into an evening of color, warmth, laughter, dreams and memories.

This year, America's most popular romantic piano artist Jim Brickman weaves an even more enchanting musical thread into his holiday repertoire: new and timeless songs from The Disney Songbook, his newest album on Walt Disney Records. This magical collaboration between Jim Brickman and Disney not only created fresh interpretations of favorite songs from classic Disney animated films, but a brand new Jim Brickman song, "Beautiful," inspired by one of the most-loved Walt Disney films, Cinderella, which is scheduled for release on DVD this fall.

Best-known for his solo piano artistry and popular romantic hits like "Valentine," "The Gift" and "Peace," Jim Brickman has delighted concert audiences for over a decade and his holiday performances have become a signature season event, acclaimed for capturing the very essence of Christmas. Jim Brickman's original compositions and his celebrated adaptations of traditional favorites vibrantly capture the festive spirit, emotions and joy of the holiday.

Since bursting on the entertainment scene and becoming a multi-million selling performing artist, Jim Brickman has made his mark on radio, stage, and television. This fall, he adds another PBS special to his two previous programs seen by millions of viewers. Helping celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Disneyland, his new special was taped in Orlando at the very entrance of the Magic Kingdom overlooking Cinderella's Castle at Walt Disney World.

Jim Brickman's new holiday concert offers a romantic way to celebrate the season with his most varied range of musical styles, artfully weaving many of his most popular hits, traditional Christmas favorites, vibrant hymns from his recent Grace CD, and dazzling selections from the Disney Songbook album.

Flavors

Authoritative guide can add zing, creative spark to any meal

Spicy foods have conquered America, observe Dave DeWitt and Nancy Gerlach, in their newest fiery tome, "The Spicy Food Lover's Bible" (Stewart, Tabori & Chang, 2005).

The authors, who also penned "The Whole Chile Pepper Book" and a slew of others, know whereof they speak.

Their latest well-researched book, incorporating more than 250 recipes from all over the globe, is a ready reference to those seeking background and practical information on all things spicy. It starts with the roots—ginger, horseradish and wasabi—and the delves into pods—chili peppers and hot sauces—before offering a compendium of the world's powders and spice blends, from Hungarian paprika to Indian curry.

A nicely conceived Bolivian Quinoa Salad is as easy to prepare in a Lake County kitchen as it is in one in South America. This tasty recipe is on the mild side, with an undercurrent of heat to it. To tone that down even further, use one jalapeno instead of two.

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Ensalada con Quinoa de Bolivia (Bolivian Quinoa Salad)

- |  |                                      |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| 1 cup quinoa   | 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper |
| 1/3 cup chopped red bell pepper  | Chopped fresh spinach,               |
| 1/4 cup chopped green onions   | chopped fresh Italian parsley        |
| 2 aji chilies, stems and seeds removed, finely chopped; or substitute jalapeno chilies | and orange zest for garnish          |
| 1 small orange, divided into segments and chopped                                      |                                      |
| 1/3 cup chopped walnuts  | Dressing                      |
| 1/4 tsp. salt  | 1/3 cup olive oil                    |
|  | 2 Tbl. lime juice, preferably fresh  |
|  | 1 Tbl. white wine vinegar            |

Place the quinoa in a strainer and rinse until the water runs clear.

Heat a saucepan over high heat; add the quinoa and twice the volume of water. The water should be 1 inch above the surface of the grain. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer 15 to 20 minutes, or until the quinoa is tender. The quinoa should absorb all the water, but if some remains, drain.

Transfer the quinoa to a large bowl and chill.

Combine all the ingredients for the dressing in a bowl and whisk to blend.

Add the bell pepper, green onion, chilies, orange and walnuts to the quinoa and season with the salt and pepper. Pour the dressing over the salad and gently toss to mix.

To serve, line a chilled platter with the spinach, mound the quinoa on top and garnish with the chopped parsley and orange zest.

About the Lake County Forest Preserves

The Lake County Forest Preserves manages 24,955 acres of land and offers innovative educational, recreational and cultural opportunities for all ages. Facilities of special interest include Independence Grove near Libertyville, Ryerson Conservation Area near Deerfield, Lake County Discovery Museum near Wauconda, Greenbelt Cultural Center near Waukegan, and Thunderhawk Golf Club near Beach Park.

Ivory-Billed woodpecker program

On Oct. 3, at 7:30 pm, Doug Stotz from Chicago Field Museum will present a program sponsored by the Lake County Audubon Society. The topic is the recent discovery of the elusive ivory-billed woodpecker, thought to be extinct for many years. The meeting will take place in the upstairs meeting room of the Libertyville Village Hall, 118 W. Cook Street, in Libertyville.

The rediscovery of the Ivory-billed woodpecker in the Big Woods area of Arkansas is one of the most electrifying finds of the last couple of decades. It set not just the birding world ablaze with interest and excitement. The Ivory-billed Woodpecker disappeared from its range through most of the southeastern U.S. between 1880 and 1940.

The last confirmed sightings were in 1944 in Louisiana. Dr. Stotz Power Point presentation will focus on the story of this legendary bird's recent discovery in a swamp bayou in eastern Arkansas. He will talk about the history of the Ivory-billed distribution, the current situation in Arkansas, and the prospects for the future for the long-term survival of this magnificent bird. In addition, he will bring specimens of the bird from the Field Museum's collection. This program should appeal to all ages, and adults are encouraged to bring their children.

Volunteers needed for forest preserve field trips

The Lake County Forest Preserves is calling on moms, dads, retired teachers, and others who are willing to volunteer their time and talents during the upcoming school year to assist with school field trips.

Volunteers are needed just one day each week, Monday through Thursday, to help with the award-winning "Lives of the Voyageurs" program and other environmental education programs. Hours are generally from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The "Lives of the Voyageurs" program features the "Floating Classroom" which is a 34-foot canoe that takes to the 115-acre lake at Independence Grove near Libertyville, and 74-acre Sterling Lake at Van Patten Woods near Wadsworth. Staff members, along with volunteers, re-enact on land and water, the daily lives of 18th century French voyageurs. Canoeing experience is helpful, but not required.

Volunteers are also needed for additional natural history and environmental education programs offered by the Lake County Forest Preserves. All training is provided to volunteers. These programs are a learning experience for both volunteers and students.

BAR

"The whole thing is that people think we're just a billiards place and we will always have that," Cue and You part owner Tom Karabatsos said. "But we're now heading in a new direction and it's directed towards everyone - on Friday's we've got dancing, Saturday we've got a live band and on Sunday we've got karaoke so everybody can be a star."

As with Cue and You, Fat Man's also features a wide variety of activities. While Cue and You features billiards tables, Fat Man's has its own beach volleyball courts for the patrons to enjoy.

"We cater to any age, from 60-year-old bikers to young kids looking for a good time," Rossmann said. "It's everyone 21 and over and it's very good mix. We have DJ Tues through Saturday and Sunday we have outdoor we have two volleyball courts."

One of the more charming aspects of the local bar scene is its more personal nature. Cue and You's other part owner, Israel Montemayor, said the area's bars recognize their patrons as more than a simple drink order or potential cover charge waiting at the door.

"Since we're located in the heart of Lake County, we want to provide the adult crowd with good entertainment, that's why we're switching to live bands," Montemayor said. "What sets this area apart is it's so personal because you can get to know everyone - all the bartenders, the owners and even the bouncers whereas in Chicago, you're just one of a bunch of people they're trying to serve and get out of the bars."

In the end, the focus of a bar is to go out and have fun. But, as local bar owners are quick to point out, you don't have to travel 50 miles to have a good time anymore. Besides, isn't it time to see what your hometown had to offer?

"People living in Lake County should keep their money in Lake County," Rossmann said. "Fat Man's has been around for 60 years and it's locally owned by Chris and Twyla Khayat. Lake County clubs have just as much fun as Chicago bars and the money stays right where it should."

Cue and You is located at the intersection of Route 45 and Route 120 in Grayslake, for more information about the club, call 847-548-8980. Fat Man's Inn is located at 36309 N. US-41 in Gurnee and can be reached at 847-244-8300.

History's paper trail

Our mail carrier delivers a dog treat for our puppy along with the usual bills and flyers. Although she's a dog lover, she's also insuring that some stray body part of hers won't need to be "returned to sender" after an unfortunate encounter with BoBo.

And periodically there's another special gift in the mailbox: a handwritten letter from a family member or friend. Letters like these also keep us "connected"—but with each other—by sharing news as mundane as the weather, or as significant as the loss of a loved one.

Unfortunately, this type of correspondence is dwindling, currently representing only two percent of the mail handled by the U.S. Postal Service. Instead we rely on e-mail. And sadly much is lost in translation. A brief message dotted with "emojis" or acronyms is quickly typed out, and just as quickly read and deleted by the receiver. Our "mailbox" is full of dispatches in cryptic "computer-ese," blotting out those rare occasions when we can actually unfold paper filled with handwritten reflections that are truly individual.

Because of the time and thought involved, a letter is a gift worth saving, a lasting treasure of thought and emotion. As a result, my closet is full of odd containers overflowing with bulging envelopes. I reach in and blindly grab one of these letters. It's from my sister-in-law Deb, a reproductive physiologist who offers gems like the following from her "unique" perspective: "Could there be any fun in being a tapeworm... solitarily cemented in one place a lifetime long, robbing nutrients and reproducing in one's spare time? Like the tapeworm we are equipped with the ability to reproduce... and again, why? At times it seems like endless cycles of imperfection struggling in parasitic futility... a malevolent joke played on all creation by a capricious cosmic bystander." I've never received mail like this in cyberspace.

There's something about a blank piece of paper that can prompt communication on a deeper level. This is what makes letters from both famous and ordinary people of the past so relevant today. They put a very human flesh on historical events similar to current headlines, like the 1906 disaster, the San Francisco earthquake. A victim writes, "In all the misery, there are the usual tearfully funny things—people crossed in ferry boats that dreadful morning in nightgowns and barefoot... one woman saved a bird and one shoe... the losses go into the billions.

Perhaps it's time to forgo the keyboard and once again gather pen, postage and stationery. Give loved ones a special gift... and maybe make your own small mark on history.

Storyteller Jim May returns to Volo Bog's Ghost Stories

Saturday night, October 15th, storyteller Jim May of Spring Grove, Illinois will again return to Volo Bog State Natural Area in Ingleside as Ghost Stories, featured storyteller. Jim was Volo Bog's first storyteller on Halloween Night back in 1986, the first year of the event. On that first Ghost Stories, Jim shared tales of barnyard ghosts and the creature that came back to the cabin to find its tail. As they still do today, people young and old gathered in the cold darkness of the picnic area, just over the hill from Volo Bog. Hiding under blankets and sitting on the edges of their lawn chairs, they awaited the "jump" line or just for the story to conclude... to see how it ends... Could it really be true? This year, some of those old stories will return... along with a few new ones.

Jim May's family first settled in Spring Grove in the 1840s. The small German-Catholic farming community provided the threads from which the fabric of Jim's tales would eventually be woven. Most of his stories are of fathers, farm life and horse trading based in the Midwestern prairie settlements. His ghost stories however are woven from rich oral traditions handed down through generations of people around the world. These scary tales have an undercurrent of humor and wisdom within them that apply universally to any culture.

Jim May's stories have taken him across the United States and Europe. He has told at schools, corporations, professional groups and festivals across the land. He was a guest on WGN's Roy Leonard Show, as well as the Studs Terkel radio show on WFMT-FM. It is a great honor to have Jim May return for an encore back at Volo Bog!

Reservations must be made by 3 p.m. Oct. 7 to attend Ghost Stories. Geared toward adults as well as to kids, a minimum age of 5 is strictly enforced. The Friends of Volo Bog will be asking for a suggested donation of $5 per adult and $2 per child. Please contact Volo Bog by 3 p.m. Oct. 7 at 815-344-1294 or volobog@imaxx.net for instructions on how to get a required parking pass and complete information.

NEW RELEASES

These films are currently playing at local theaters. An average of six new reviews a week as well as recent releases can be found under Now Playing at www.reelmoviecritic.com.

opening this week

The Greatest Game Ever Played (PG): Based on the true story of the 1913 U.S. Open, a 20-year-old American defeated British veteran golfer Harry Vardon. Golf fans will love this heart-warming story. Directed by Bill Paxton.

Prize Winner of Defiance, Ohio: Based on a true story, Julianne Moore, Woody Harrelson and Laura Dern star in the story of a woman who defies the odds to keep a roof over her family's heads. Moore is a devoted housewife and mother of ten in the 1950s. Her husband, Harrelson, is a slacker alcoholic who can't seem to make ends meet. Moore earns money just in the nick of time by winning profitable jingle contests. (PG-13)

Serenity: A goofy and delightfully trashy excursion into sci-fi absurdity. The film is a spin off of the late, lamented "Firefly" TV show. The film was written and directed by Joss Whedon, who is a God-like figure in many comic book/horror and fantasy circles. "Serenity" does a good job of balancing between adventure and parody. It isn't particularly innovative or original, but it provides more mindless fun than any movie since "DEBs." (PG-13)

Into the Blue: A thriller set in shark-infested waters of the Bahamas. When young divers discover the wreckage of a cargo plane at the bottom of the sea, they believe their dream of buried treasure has come true. What they don't realize is that millions of dollars of illegal goods are in that sunken plane and a group of dangerous criminals are already desperately searching for it. Stars Jessica Alba, Kerry Washington and Paul Walker. (PG-13)

Mirrormask: A 15-year-old girl wants out of the traveling circus run by her parents. This live action film combined with digital animation takes her on a journey into a land of fantastic landscapes filled with monkeybirds and other strange beings and surreal events. That will teach you to disobey your parents. (PG)

MOVIE REVIEW KEY

Inside job

Kyle Pratt (Jodie Foster of "Panic Room") boards an empty Aalto-Aire plane for a flight to New York from Berlin. In the cargo hold is the casket containing her recently deceased husband. With Kyle is her distraught 6-year-old daughter Julia (Marlene Lawston), who quietly curls up on the floor under the window seat as the plane begins to fill and the flight attendant takes a head count.

A man in a nearby seat tries to strike up a conversation with Kyle. She and her daughter retreat to empty rows of seats in the rear, where they stretch out and both fall asleep. When Kyle wakes up Julia is missing and the film lurches into a decidedly higher gear. After her cursory search comes up empty, Kyle insists on seeing the flight Captain (Sean Bean of "The Island"). He will only go so far to look for someone that, according to their records, is not on board and no one remembers seeing. After all, he has 400 other passengers on board that he is concerned about.

When Kyle becomes insistent, and causes unrest among the passengers (which is not tolerated in this age of heightened security), undercover Air Marshall Gene Carson (Peter Sarsgaard of "The Skeleton Key") is asked to keep Kyle restrained. He's the man who attempted to get chummy with her before.

We discover (through flashbacks) that Kyle is extremely upset, and on medication, because her husband's death is considered a suicide. But is it? Her daughter's name does not appear on the manifest. So, was Julia really onboard? The night before, Kyle thinks that she saw two olive skin men spying on her in her apartment. Are they the same two Arab men she accuses on the plane?

Kyle is a propulsion engineer who helped design the new wide body, double-deck plane they are flying in. She knows all the rivets and recesses that could serve as hiding places. And she is determined to find her child.

"Flightplan" is not a smooth cinematic ride. Nearly transparent foreshadowing keeps this from being a top-notch thriller. The villain in the piece is not as chilling as Cillian Murphy in "Red Eye." The final scene with the Arab passengers at the end plays out too neatly and takes forgiveness to a level that is hard to swallow.

Overall, the film does have you on the edge of your seat at times and Jodie Foster brings a clear-eyed intensity to her performance that is always welcome.

41st Chicago International Film Festival

By Pam & George Singleton

Movie lovers look forward to this premiere film festival for a number of reasons. You get an early view of the best major motion pictures, starring some of your favorite actors featuring exciting directors. There's also that chance to see a great gem of a film that may have limited or zero advertising. Since both types of films may play in the same theater back to back, one trip to the movie house provides a high yield return.

The big three marquee films are "Elizabethtown," "Bee Season" and "The Weather Man." Opening the festival on Thursday, October 6th is "Elizabethtown," directed by Cameron Crowe ("Almost Famous," "Vanilla Sky," "Jerry Maguire"). It stars Orlando Bloom, Kirsten Dunst and Susan Sarandon. Bloom travels from the big city to Elizabethtown, KY to make arrangements for the death of his father. Enroute he meets flight attendant Dunst, who becomes his savior and confidant throughout the ordeal. The story that unfolds shares insights about loss, redemption and love. Roger Ebert will host the screening and Susan Sarandon will be on hand to receive a Career Achievement Award.

"Bee Season" screens on Saturday, October 15th. Directors Scott McGehee and David Siegel ("The Deep End") once again bring us a moving and original family drama. "Bee Season" focuses on the implosion of what appears to be the perfect family. When Richard Gere starts overly enjoying the spotlight of his daughter's spelling bee success, his older son becomes interested in a young woman (Kate Bosworth) and his wife Juliette Binoche ("Chocolate") reveals dark secrets that will change the dynamics of the family forever.

Closing the festival is "The Weather Man," which stars Nicolas Cage, Michael Caine and Hope Davis. Directed by Gore Verbinski ("Pirates of the Caribbean," "The Ring"), the film centers on Cage, a Chicago TV weatherman who lives a life just this side of overcast. Chicago is showcased brilliantly in the film. Cage is separated from his wife Davis and his two teenage children. His son is being hit on by a male high school counselor and is experimenting with drugs. His daughter is somewhat overweight and has some major self-image issues. Cage's father, Michael Caine, is a highly successful writer who, unlike his son, was able to balance his career objectives and still be a caring and attentive father and husband. "The Weather Man" is analogous to many things in life. The wind can change quickly and we cannot control it.

The films this year screen at two of Chicago's top rated movie houses, Landmark Century and AMC River East 21. For details on ticket prices and theater locations, visit www.chicagofilmfestival.com

Fashion Fashion takes a walk on the wild side

A quick look inside today's fashion magazines reveals top designers showing off their animal instincts more and more. From runway to real life, wildlife prints are a fashion "must" and include everything from butterflies to zebra stripes.

In fact, most fashion experts say this season's hot styles are a mixture of bohemian and wild safari. Tiger and zebra prints, jungle patterns, and tunics with detailed embellishments are a must-have fashion look that anyone can wear. Here are some tips that will help you pull it off:

- Stylists say that wearing safari animal prints, especially leopard, is a great way to add a bold, fashionable edge to your wardrobe.

- If it's a transformation you're looking for, the butterfly motif is also taking flight in the fashion industry and can be seen on everything from shoes to hair clips, bags, tops and even gowns. Celebrities are catching on to the craze, as can be seen in the pages of beauty and fashion magazines.

- Butterflies have begun to flutter from fashion into other industries as well. Because butterflies symbolize freedom and the confidence that follows, some brands have selected it as an icon. Most recently, Stayfree(r) has incorporated a pretty butterfly logo to its fun, aqua-colored Dry Max packaging. So if you're looking for a way to energize your wardrobe, stylists say to incorporate a butterfly element—whether it's a handbag, top, scarf or pin.

- The animal trend reaches beyond leopards and butterflies. Fashionistas can expect to see a lot more clothes and accessories featuring animal elements in the coming months.

Other hot trends to keep an eye out for include snakeskin accessories and sleek, Season's hot styles—Jungle patterns are a must-have fashion look that anyone can wear.

African-inspired separates, as well as real and fake fur adorning jackets, sweaters and more. Luxe fabrics like croc and shearling and even fox fur collars were all the rage at recent fashion shows and are expected to hit the racks in the coming months.

When it comes to fashion, it's a jungle out there. Remember, with these bold safari-style prints and accessories, be careful not to overdo it. Sometimes, less is more.

Take Us Home Today

Chappy

This 4-year-old Chihuahua mix hasn't had the best start in life. He was originally dumped at Save-A-Pet, then adopted out and just recently returned because his owner was moving. He's really shy and likes to be a lap dog. He's good with dogs, cats and kids.

Midgie

This is one of the animals displaced by Hurricane Katrina. This 5-month-old shorthair calico has had a tough time in weeks past and needs a new home. She's good with cats and dogs, has all her shots and is in the process of getting neutered.

Hope, Clarence, and Wiggins

Go to www.save-a-pet-il.org to read the amazing stories about these three beagles, displaced victims of Hurricane Katrina, and dozens of photos of the rescue efforts.

Hope is a female, Clarence is an unneutered male and Wiggins is a neutered male. Hope and Clarence are heartworm-positive.

Many people in the Pass Christian area in Mississippi had seen, fed, pet and heard these three beagles. They were always seen around one area and especially in one lot on a street corner.

These three need to be adopted together and really need a fenced-in yard.

These pets are available for adoption at Save-A-Pet, at 31664 N. Fairfield Road, Grayslake. For information, call 847-740-7788 or go to www.save-a-pet-il.org.

Four kittens in a plastic bag

Two weeks ago I received a call from a man in Waukegan who found four kittens in a plastic bag in an alley. I wasn't sure if this was a horrible prank. The man sounded different on the phone, his speech slightly slurred. Hearing someone in the background who sounded normal I asked to speak to him. It turned out that they were calling from a facility for the mentally handicapped. I spoke to the social worker who said that yes, they had the four kittens. They couldn't have them in the building and if I didn't come and get them he instructed the man I originally spoke to that they needed to go back in the alley.

Leaving me no option I agreed to come get the kittens right away, as long as he took them out of the plastic bag and put them somewhere safe. He agreed. I picked up Mary, one of our volunteers who I know I can count on for a situation like that, and headed for Waukegan. We arrived to find four tiny kittens, barely 3 weeks old, stressed out and upset. We put them in a small carrier and headed back.

Quickly coming to the conclusion they would not eat cat food we purchased kitten milk and bottles. (We had done this not long ago.) Mary and her family agreed to foster the kittens and within 24 hours they were drinking their milk and thriving. All four kittens are spoken for and going to their new forever homes soon.

While this story had a happy ending many similar stories don't. There are very cruel people out there that look at animals as objects, not living, breathing beings. If you ever see anyone do something cruel like that be sure to speak up. That kind of behavior should never be tolerated and there are laws that protect animals from such abuse.

Pet for adoption

Bowser is a 1-2 year old hound/rottweiler mix. He is a laid back, easy big boy who gets along with kids, adults and dogs. Contact AEAR at 847-816-0831 if you'd like to adopt Bowser.

Lake County Folk Club presents 'Swing Blvd.'

The Lake County Folk Club continues its 2005-2006 Concert Stage series in Oct. with a musical event sure to catch ones fancy. October's Concert Stage features Swing Blvd.- Dan Zahn & Kate Moretti with Don Stiernberg, Marc Edelstein at The Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf St., Park City, at 7 p.m. on Oct. 16.

October's Concert Stage series brings the exciting acoustic folk and jazz influenced roots music sounds of Swing Blvd. to The Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf Street, Park City, at 7 p.m. on Oct. 16.

According to the Duke (Ellington, that is), "It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that swing!" Swing Blvd. takes that musical philosophical message to its heart and soul as audiences will experience during their Oct. 16 Concert Stage performance at The Greenleaf Grill.

As a matter of fact it was with that very musical message that Swing Blvd. was born by Dan Zahn and Kate Moretti who form the backbone of Swing Blvd. which, is sometimes a trio and sometimes, a quartet but, all of the time is simply superb swinging folk-jazz roots music played by simply superb swinging musicians.

Though, Zahn and Moretti are widely known in the Lake County music community as "folkies," Swing Blvd. gives the pair a chance to show another side of their musical personalities with Kate's guitar rhythms and expressive vocals shining along side of Dan's outstanding interpretative Django Reinhardt guitar licks as well as his fine vocal work, too.

Dan Zahn has toured the country during the past two decades performing both folk and original tunes. With five recordings to his credit, he has been called "a consummate performer with a refreshing lack of pretense" by Dirty Linen Magazine and his original material has been critically acclaimed.

Kate Moretti is no stranger to Lake County area stages having opened shows at The Lake County Folk Club for Joel Mabus and David Massengill among others. Her quick witted humor and charming personality make her a crowd favorite wherever she appears. Moretti shines in the vocal spotlight with a voice that is sweet and gentle one moment and strong and bluesy the next.

In just a little over a year, Swing Blvd. has drawn rave reviews from performances all over the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa. Chris Vallillo of the Concert series at the Dickson Mounds State Museum in Lewiston, IL says, "Dan's adept guitar paired with Kate's sultry vocals join together in a combination that smolders and swings."

Currently in the works is a Swing Blvd. CD scheduled for release this autumn.

Joining Dan Zahn and Kate Moretti in Swing Blvd. as they take the October 16th Concert Stage audience on a swingin, musical excursion through the 30's and 40's are mandolin virtuoso and Grammy nominee Don Stiernberg and Marc Edelstein on upright bass.

When Swing Blvd. performs Everybody's toes will be tappin' and hands will be clappin, at The Greenleaf Grill on Sunday, Oct. 16 for a special Concert Stage night of folk-roots jazz, swing, and blues.

Opening for Swing Blvd. will be 2nd Generation which consists of Adam Hjerpe and Jerry Theil (both formerly of Shank's Pony.)

Admission is $10 Adult. $8 Lake County Folk Clubmembers. $5 Students/Seniors. All ages are welcome and food and beverages are available at The Greenleaf Grill. For additional information call The Lake County Folk Club at 847-295-7228 or visit: www.thelakecounty-folkclub.org.

Swing Blvd will be performing at at The Greenleaf Grill along with Dan Zahn & Kate Moretti with Don Stiernberg, Marc Edelstein on Oct. 16.

Leaders pep rally for after-school programs

Leaders: Progress made, but after-school programs still needed

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Two years ago State Rep. Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills) and Mundelein Police Chief Ray Rose told youth leaders it was important to find activities for children after school and invited these leaders to brainstorm. The Lake County After School Coalition was founded. The motivation to join forces and find activities focused on the fact that juvenile crime spikes between the hours of 3 and 6 p.m.

Leaders met, groups made the best use of their sources, duplicated efforts were consolidated and groups tried a number of activities.

The motivation to give kids constructive activities is still the same. However, in two years time, some progress has been made and

The After School Coalition met last week for the first of what they hope is an annual event. Chief Rose emphasized that the need is still there and it's important to move forward.

Forest Preserve bringing hurricane relief

Staff and heavy equipment from the Lake County Forest Preserves have gone to the New Orleans area to assist with hurricane cleanup, said Lake County Forest Preserves president Bonnie Thomson Carter.

"We welcome this opportunity to help directly with recovery," Carter said. "The Board and Forest Preserve staff are happy to contribute our expertise, equipment and other resources toward the relief effort."

Four members of the Forest Preserve Natural Resource and Forestry crews headed south along with heavy equipment from the Forest Preserve fleet.

Chuck Myers, Natural Resource Crew Chief, Al Zelaya, Forestry Crew Chief, Mark Speckan, Forestry/Natural Resource Technician and Mike Speckan, Forest Preserve Maintenance Worker, will provide much-needed assistance with tree removal in the community of Covington, La., a town of about 10,000 residents.

The Forest Preserve team will bring with them a 65-foot boom lift truck, a two-ton dump truck and a front-end loader, along with chain-saws and other forestry equipment.

The Forest Preserve Board has also offered temporary housing to displaced hurricane evacuees in Lake County. Several Forest Preserve properties include houses and other structures left from when the land was privately owned. These homes have been registered with FEMA's Natural Emergency Resource Registry, the Lake County Emergency Management Agency and PADS Crisis Services.

Hurricane evacuees can receive aid at temporary assistance center

Following the devastation of Hurricane Katrina, more than 200 people from the Gulf Coast Region came to Lake County to live with friends and family-members or are being supported by relief organizations such as PADS.

In order to assist these hurricane evacuees, the Lake County Emergency Management Agency has arranged for caseworkers from the federal government to be available locally.

Caseworkers will be available on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, from noon to 6 p.m., at the Lake County Emergency Management Operations Center, at 1303 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville.

Federal caseworkers representing Veteran's Administration, Social Security Administration and Small Business Administration will be available to assist evacuees. The representatives will be able to access FEMA paperwork and claims, welfare information, health services and all other federal programs related to disaster relief and aid. PADS representatives will be on site to assist with housing issues, and the Lake County Health Department will be available to address evacuees' health needs.

The goal of the temporary Federal Assistance Center is to provide Hurricane Katrina victims with direct access to federal government programs that may have been cut-off due to the hurricane and to expedite the disaster claims process.

"We hope that by providing direct access to federal representatives, evacuees will be able to better navigate the many different forms of federal assistance and obtain first-hand explanation of FEMA assistance," said Lake County Board Chair Suzi Schmidt. "I want to commend Lake County Emergency Management Agency Director Dave Christensen for coordinating this effort because this type of direct federal assistance is not happening everywhere there are evacuees."

Evacuees visiting the Federal Assistance Center should bring any claim numbers, personal identification numbers, personal account numbers and any other federally issued paperwork related to their personal claims. They should also bring a form of identification and any insurance information related to property or health.

For assistance from local government agencies or for information about the relief efforts call the County's Hurricane Katrina hotline at 847-377-7100.

Ryg receives award for bill sponsorship

State Rep. Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills) received a Certificate of Appreciation from the Gastro-Intestinal Research Foundation (GIRF) Thursday at their annual board meeting at the Standard Club in Chicago.

The certificate of appreciation reads, "For her support of persons afflicted with IBD (Crohn's & colitis) and other GI illnesses and for sponsoring Illinois General Assembly HB 0834 'The Restroom Accessibility Act' commonly known as 'Ally's Law.'"

GIRF's effort to support research on the causes and cures of digestive diseases include funding for equipment, laboratories and the support of investigators and physicians in the University of Chicago Gastroenterology Section, who seek solutions to all kinds of gastrointestinal illnesses. Ally Bain, 14, suffers from Crohn's disease, a serious condition that causes inflammation of the intestine and that can cause loss of control of digestive functions.

Ally was denied use of a store restroom during one such incident, despite explaining her medical condition to a manager and pre-sending a card to verify her condition. Ally and her mom Lisa were so upset that they decided to take action to insure others were spared similar mistreatment.

"We wanted to make it better for me and anyone else it might happen to," Ally said. "It's nice to know that people like me will be able to go places without worrying about access to a restroom."

Ally and her mother, Lisa Bain, contacted State Rep. Kathy Ryg about Ally's experience. Ryg then introduced Ally's Law, which allows residents with medical conditions to use employee restrooms in retail facilities when public restrooms are unavailable. Current Illinois law does not require retailers to make their restrooms available to people with medical emergencies.

"Ally's Law gives thousands of Illinoisans with digestive disorders greater freedom," Ryg said. "I believe this bill could be used as a model for states without similar protections."

HB 834 passed the General Assembly with unanimous support and currently awaits the governor's signature.

Road to adoption often long, filled with pitfalls

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

In a recent story about the Denakis family adopting four children, bringing the family to a full count of 10, readers learned about the happy ending. Getting to that happy ending was an uphill battle for the family.

Jim and Sheila Denikas met in high school and married young. In a short time two children, Jason and Kimmy, were born to them and they were happy. But each had always wanted to be foster parents, especially if it enabled siblings to grow up together.

While raising two young children, they learned through friends of a 3-year-old girl living at risk with her mother in a hotel. The mother had problems, including an alcoholic boyfriend. The Denikas' jumped right in. Katie stayed with them for six months and they loved her. She was doing well when the mother decided she wanted her daughter back.

The Denikas' asked the Department of Children and Family Services to intercede, but since the mother had a place to take her, they could do nothing until the situation became abusive.

"We were devastated and Katie cried," Sheila said. "One day the family moved and was gone."

When Jason was in kindergarten the school called Sheila and asked if she would be interested in doing some before-and-after school care because there was a need.

They were checked out and approved by Childserv for daycare. Once again they considered foster parenting and talked to their children who were 7 and 4 at that time. The Denikas' explained to their children what changes there would be for the family. The children were enthusiastic and gathered their toys for the new brother or sister each wanted respectively.

"We told the kids that these children would have parents who loved them but needed some help to learn how to be better mommies and daddies," Sheila said. "We got in touch with Kids Hope United which was known as Central Baptist at the time."

"The whole agency goes the extra mile for everyone and everything. They follow up on their promises, and we went through tons of interviews and took Parent Pride classes. We made the extra room into a bedroom decorated with Dalmatians."

"We got a call about a five-year-old boy who had some medical problems. He has an esophagus that narrowed and had an 80 percent hearing loss. He had been born prematurely and his twin didn't survive. The mother had used drug and alcohol and he'd had open-heart surgery at two months. He weighed only 29 pounds," she said.

They thought he was perfect until they learned he was bi-racial.

"We were concerned how the community would react and if we would have prejudice issues and how it would impact Jason and Kimmy," Jim and Sheila discussed this on the phone since Jim was at work, and it took them 45 minutes to decide that love didn't have a color and everyone would have to get used to it, Sheila said.

"I called Barb (from Kids Hope United) and said 'we want him.' She told us to sleep on it."

"Our parents really weren't for it, but Jim and I decided we had to do what was best for our family," Sheila said. In addition to superficial concerns their parents were concerned because the biological father had been in jail but was now out.

"Our parents were concerned about our safety and used race as the focus," she said. Matthew came for a pre-placement day the day after Thanksgiving - our traditional day to decorate the Christmas tree.

"It was a big icebreaker," Jim said. "He bonded to us immediately."

The extended family fell in love with him, and they involved their kids in the adoption preparations to minimize on the jealousy. They got Mathew on Dec. 19, and the caseworker came once a week because he had special needs.

"She helped us make the transition and have good family dynamics," Sheila said.

The year 2000 was a good year for the family. In January they adopted 6-month-old Bobby who weighed only 10 pounds, and in June they adopted Heavenly, who was 11.

The final four children who were adopted in the spring of this year were siblings and the father did not want his rights terminated. After many delays, the Denikas' knew they needed some help.

They turned to Sen. Adeline Jay Geokaris (Zion-R). Mary Nelson, assistant to the senator, said more people have problems similar to the Denikas' than a person would think. Their case was extreme because the birth father took it all the way to the Illinois Supreme Court.

The Senator and her staff worked for a year and a half helping the Denikas family with the adoption.

"We made calls to the Department of Children and Family Services, caseworkers, the Lake County Courts, juvenile courts, Joliet Court and the Illinois Supreme Court to make sure it moved along," Nelson said. "Rather than leave it lay we just kept on top of it from one phase to the next phase. The senator truly worked very, very hard," she said.

"One of the delays was caused by the birth father who made comments about all the judges with whom he had influence. Of course, he didn't (have influence) as it turned out," she said.

The Denikas family is not the only one who has sought help from Senator Geokaris.

"If they call and talk with us, we'll work with them," Nelson said. "Any case that comes, we'll handle and keep on it."

Nelson said the delays could be due to almost anything, some of which is done intentionally.

"We found it was lack of information due to the DCFS not completing paperwork, or not doing it properly so it could be presented to the court. Lawyers or caseworkers, or birth parents who drag their feet could also cause the delays."

"There's a lot of stumbling blocks that can't be pinpointed," Nelson said. "There was one father in a different case who tried to keep his kids even though they had been out of his custody for three or four years, and wasn't doing what he was supposed to do."

After calling her a foul name, the father told Nelson he had to keep the kids or he would be taken off public aid. That can include medical care, food stamps and subsidized housing, Nelson said.

"That was his motivation, not the kids," she said.

At Kids Hope United, a foster care program in Lake Villa, the goal is always to get the children to return home, according to licensing specialist Kahdijah Hakeem.

"That goal only changes when the parents don't do the things they're asked to do," Hakeem said. The requirements might be to go through a substance abuse treatment program successfully, have a permanent place to stay and to be employed.

"Some of our bio-families aren't working hard to get the kids - just the bare minimum so the judge won't get mad and terminate their parental rights, but not enough to get the kids back," Hakeem said.

"I think all of our parents love their children and want them returned, but aren't able to do to do it."

"Most of the parents have had childhoods you wouldn't believe. They are victims of abuse and are numbing themselves with drugs."

"They are victims themselves. It's so easy to be angry at these people, but their stories are almost as sad as the children's," she said.

"They never had a role model. Classes are offered, but sometimes they aren't enough," Hakeem said. "We never want children to linger in foster homes."

CLC keeps pace with Latino growth

More and more members of Lake County's rapidly growing Hispanic community are taking advantage of higher education opportunities offered at College of Lake County. Latino enrollment at CLC is up 33 percent since 2000 and now forms 24 percent of the student body.

College officials point out that the increase parallels census figures. With enrollment standing at 15,745, latest figures show that Hispanics made up 17.6 percent of Lake County population, an increase from 7.5 in 1990.

The changing student mix has spurred CLC to diversify its faculty and staff. DeRionne Pollard, vice president of educational affairs, said the goal is to have Latino students see that there is a sharing of common backgrounds. Higher education is becoming an aspiration in the Hispanic community. A pilot program is in the making at CLC to track the number of Hispanic students who go on to four-year schools.

At the request of some students, CLC officials are studying ways to tailor classes for Hispanic students such as advanced Spanish and Latino studies.

Field's demise not cataclysmic

Shed a tear for the demise of Marshall Field's, but don't get maudlin. Landmark businesses have been closing or transforming for years. It's the order of business. Over the years, Lake County communities have lost for various reasons fine businesses that stood as landmark enterprises before closing.

The march of technology and the vagaries of the market place are stern taskmasters when it comes to determining life or death in the world of commerce. Classic car museums are full of once-prominent brands that now are part of automotive history. In the field of transportation, the airline industry is notorious for tossing once successful and well received companies on the ash heap. The same can be said for every segment of business.

So the impending disappearance of the Field's name as part of the retail scene is not unusual. What may be extraordinary, perhaps, is the extent of the hand wringing and wailing. Thank the media for that.

Lake County has its share of landmark businesses that no longer exist that are remembered only by senior citizens. The demise of a bedrock business, even of icon proportions is part of local history.

Waukegan leads the way in the number of commercial graveyard markers. The majority of today's residents have never heard of the Globe Dept. stores, Durkin & Durkin, Hein's, Feinberg's, all names that once dominated retailing in northeastern Illinois. Bet that Field's will be recalled with whimsy in a few years. New owner Macy's undoubtedly will be accepted in time, establishing its own identity in one-time Field's territory.

Going from town to town, the same is true throughout Lake County. Grayslake once drew customers from far and wide with stores like Hook & Co. for men and boys wear and Hook Lumber. Libertyville was a destination shopping area with anchors like Langworthy's, Ray Smith Shoes and Mackey Jewelers. Highland Park had its Fell & Co. for attire for the entire family. Lake Forest had O'Neal Hardware and Robertson's for men. Antioch had solid stores with big followings like Barnstables, Williams Bros. Hardware, King's Drugs, and Klass Men's Store, which had an unforgettable motto, "The Store for Men with Klass."

Before Gurnee Mills, Gurnee was known for Gundelach's Pharmacy and Welton's Foods. Mason Drugs and Rouse Service in Mundelein were must stops. B.J. Hooper Drugs stood as a beacon in Lake Villa.

The stores came and they went. The fact is that the main streets of today in this locality will look much different 10 years from now, certainly 20 years. Were the business icons mentioned in this editorial missed? Certainly, for a time. But shoppers got over a loss and found new outlets for goods and services.

The same will be true when the name Marshall Field & Co. and the green shopping bags become history.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Help curb domestic violence in U.S.

While A Safe Place/ Lake County Crisis Center celebrates 25 years of providing comprehensive services to more than 20,000 area survivors of domestic violence, it remains sobering that every nine seconds in this nation, a woman is being victimized by her intimate partner; that domestic violence remains the leading cause of injury to women in this country; that annually more than 3 million children witness this violence.

As the date for renewal of the Violence Against Women Act approaches, we want to recognize and to publicly applaud those Illinois legislators who serve the communities of our service area and who are co-sponsors of VAWA 2005: Sen. Richard Durbin (D-IL), Sen. Barack Obama (D-IL), Melissa L. Bean (D-IL); Mark Kirk, (R-IL).

It was only in 1994 that our nation first acknowledged the harm caused by domestic and sexual violence and allocated resources to help victims by enacting the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). The renewal of this legislation in 2000, following VAWA's effectiveness in assisting millions of women, children and families, added important services for immigrant, rural, disabled and older women.

With VAWA set to expire Sept. 30, a bipartisan congressional effort has introduced the Violence Against Women Act of 2005, renewing the successful programs already in place and, moreover, offering a more comprehensive approach supporting further training, education and outreach so that state and federal agencies can do a better job of preventing violence, as well as breaking the cycle of violence that persists through generations.

The co-authors of this legislation, U.S. Senators Joe Biden, Orrin Hatch and Arlen Specter offer stiffer penalties for repeat offenders, provide for vital supportive services and direct help toward victims in rural, underserved areas. More attention will be given to the millions of child witnesses to domestic violence and to teenagers who find themselves in violent dating relationships. The law also emphasizes the dire housing needs of battered women.

Domestic violence is everyone's business. Please let your legislators know you support their commitment to ending the cycle of violence and supporting healthy and peaceful communities.

Looking for relatives

Nepotism in Fox Lake. Here we go again, recently the former 911 Director was crucified by the mayor for hiring a relative, that the trustees were well aware this was his wife and the mayor said it is nepotism!

Recently I opened up the Fox Lake Press and read that the mayor has appointed the daughter of her long-time political ally and supporter Karen Jakstas to a village position. In the very same paper the current 911 Supervisor Annette Wolf has hired one of her relatives Tracy Roberts as a dispatcher.

Ms. Roberts has little to no experience on the new highly technical equipment and ironically is making more money per hour than all the other dispatchers. If this relationship was not disclosed prior to her hiring the 911 Supervisor has seriously breached the public trust. Shame on the mayor and the board of trustees.

A check of the village departments reveals you have a former trustee's sister (hired while the trustee was still in office) on the payroll, and since taking office the mayor's daughter-in-law was hired as a clerk for the building department. Now I read the parks and recreation director has resigned, I would bet the mayor will have a friend or relative in the position very soon!

The mayor obviously does not know the definition of nepotism. The last dictionary I checked the definition of nepotism was: - favoritism shown by somebody in power to relatives and friends, especially in appointing them to good jobs/positions. I am embarrassed to say I voted for the current mayor.

Consider local strays

My state representative, Ed Sullivan Jr. voted this year to legalize snares to trap animals. Did Sullivan think a trapper's snare would be able tell the difference between a stray cat or dog? Thankfully the Governor vetoed the bill. Then Sullivan voted against a bill that would reimburse us for the cost of neutering and vaccinating our pets. Surely he must understand that all these unwanted pets end up in the pounds, where they are destroyed?

What I don't understand is that Sullivan is now crowing in the press about how he adopted two dogs from Mississippi — when he went there to inspect his vacation home in Ocean Springs. Perhaps he doesn't know it, but there are also lots of stray dogs and cats here in Illinois. I wish Representative Sullivan would show some concern for our pets and strays back home as well.

Doing their job

On Friday, Sept. 23, there was a house on fire on Nicole Lane in Round Lake Beach. There were no humans inside.

This is the first time we have been so close to a bad situation to see what the fire department and police department do when they are called into action.

I watched with other neighbors as they took control and did their job.

I also saw a cat brought out of the house, and it was given oxygen, and they tried so very hard to save it's life. The care and compassion they showed for that animal makes me thankful that they will be there for us if we ever need them.

In today's world it is easy to complain and criticize with all that is going on. But then there is a time when you have to say thank you.

It is time to say thank you to the Round Lake Beach Fire Department and Police Department.

School extravagance

I was deeply disturbed after learning about a recent workshop held at Midlane Country Club for all new directors at the Lincoln Center. This workshop included principals, assistant principals, guest speakers, and several consultants who were hired by the Board of Education of Waukegan Schools.

With the extremely poor financial situation of District 60, this seems to me to be an extravagant expense.

A new organization was formed recently, Grass Roots School Watch Dog Group. I encourage members of the community to become involved whether or not you have children in school.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rezoning misguided

Mr. Tomasello's proposal for a banquet hall/restaurant paints a rosy picture of a commercial development set on 12 acres of residential property (R-1) and surrounded by residential property on all four sides. The concept of a banquet hall/restaurant and hotel or other outlet commercial development is in direct conflict with the principles of good zoning and recent court decisions regarding spot rezoning.

It is also in conflict with the Village of Antioch's own Comprehensive Plan which call for the Route 59 corridor to be "urban residential." Mr. Tomasello's comments regarding a "few upset residents" belie the fact that over 50 people and representatives from the surrounding homeowner's groups showed up at an informal meeting at my home where the sentiments were clearly in opposition to such a zoning change.

The concept would also make a traffic situation at Bowles Road and Route 59 even more dangerous.

Mr. Tomasello also fails to mention that his "pristine and country-like setting" includes over 20,000 square feet of roof space and parking for 240 cars which will create acres of impervious surface that will drain into the adjacent waterways such as Lake Antioch adding to the environmental burden this lake already faces.

If so few residents are upset with his "upscale" proposal, why did 80 percent of the homeowners with property contiguous to the Pedersen property sign a petition opposing his proposal Changing this property from R-1 to commercial will set a precedent for the Route 59 corridor and will create an island of commerce where none exists today and benefits only the Pedersens and the Tomasellos. This island is not guaranteed to stay as the "beautiful concept" Mr. Tomasello describes. Perhaps we should all recall the Waterfall Restaurant and Banquet facility at Tiffany and Route 59 which was an "upscale" restaurant but today lights up the Antioch skyline as Country Pontiac. Mr. Tomasello is not guaranteed economic success but we will be guaranteed commercial property in a residential neighborhood if this property is rezoned.

Given the new banquet hall from TGS Enterprises slated for Route 173 and the clear incompatibility with the existing real estate, Mr. Tomasello would be well advised to take his concept to the commercial areas that already exist in Antioch, not create a new one.

Cronism gets jobs

Harry Truman was quoted as saying "the buck stops here." The Bushies say, "Let's not play the blame game." Bush turned FEMA over to political cronies then had his flunkies blame local Democrats. There were two qualifications for an administration job at FEMA: Be a Bush loyalist.

Have no emergency experience.
Michael Brown was doing "a heck of job" until Bush played the blame game.

Richard Homan
Ingleside

Avoid partisanship

In light of the apparent breakdown of FEMA's ability to respond to the Hurricane Katrina disaster, an independent commission is needed to review why relief aid and emergency personnel were not immediately available.

It appears that since the management of FEMA were mostly political appointments, a review of the breakdown of the emergency system led by Republicans would not lead to any type of real answers other than a lot of rhetorical double talk.

According to a Sept. 9 Washington Post article "FEMA's top three leaders — Director Michael D. Brown, Chief of Staff Patrick J. Rhode and Deputy Chief of Staff Brooks D. Altshuler — arrived with ties to President Bush's 2000 campaign or to the White House advance operation, according to the agency. Two other senior operational jobs are filled by a former Republican lieutenant governor of Nebraska and a U.S. Chamber of Commerce official who was once a political operative."

Because of these appointments, it would appear to be impossible for an partisan commission to come up with real answers, so a commission fashioned after the 9/11 Commission is needed. This investigation must be independent from the politicians and have its own investigators, budget and subpoena authority.

After School Coalition attracting attention of U.S. Senators

At last week's annual meeting, State Rep. Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills) told those attending the meeting that U.S. Senator Barack Obama wants to remain on the organization's mailing list and would like to come and speak to its membership at some time, Ryg said.

Meanwhile U.S. Senator Dick Durbin has met with Mundelein's own After School Coalition last February to discuss after school programs.

Sindles not idle

Summer was a vacation of sorts for former full-time Mundelein Mayor Marilyn Sindles. The long-time official, defeated for re-election last April, hasn't been idle. She's combined relaxing with catching up on household chores, including getting her home painted. Friends are predicting that Sindles might update her resumé soon and check out employment opportunities.

Funding released

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karls (R-Zion) said the state has finally authorized the release of funding for several Lake County improvement and development projects. She said $95,000 that had been set aside for 31st District projects is to be released. Beach Park will receive $70,000 in funding for all costs associated with infrastructure improvements on approximately 16 acres that are to be developed into a park, while $25,000 will go to Round Lake Park for all costs associated with the expansion of its village hall.

Pig roast for Sullivan

On Oct. 9 from noon to 4 p.m., the 4th Annual Sullivan Pig Roast in support of State Rep. Ed Sullivan Jr. (R-Mundelein), will be at Half Day Forest Preserve on Route 21 between Route 60 and Route 22.

To reserve tickets, call 847-949-5579. Tickets are $25 per person, $45 per couple and $55 per family. There will be food, refreshments and entertainment.

Wood announces

Republican Roycealee J. Wood of Lake Bluff, the current Regional Superintendent of Schools for Lake County, announced her candidacy for reelection. Wood was elected to the position of Regional Superintendent of Schools for Lake County on Nov. 5, 2002 and assumed that position on July 1, 2003.

Wood served the North Chicago Public Schools at all levels during her career. She worked in the role of teacher, guidance counselor, assistant principal, guidance director, and as the assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction for the district before being appointed to the position of Assistant Regional Superintendent of Schools for Lake County in July of 1994. She served as the Assistant Regional Superintendent of Schools for nine years before being elected to the position of Regional Superintendent of Schools for Lake County.

Seeing the light

When it comes to dedication to a cause, few can top Fox Lake Trustee Greg Murrey's determination to turn on the streetlights on the south side of Route 12. "I would like to congratulate Trustee Murrey for his efforts," said colleague Ted Beskow.

The lights have been a village project since 1996, when Ken Hamsher was mayor. JF Edwards, Inc. was the general contractor. The lights are now waiting final inspection.

"I remember when it was one of my first projects when I became street superintendent," said Ron Hoehne, public works superintendent.

Working up a lather

This week's award for village board soap opera goes to the on-going battle between Fox Lake trustees Ed Bender and Greg Murrey vs. Trustee Noel Working and Mayor Clady Irwin. At issue is the cost of the renovation at the police station. It got to the point where foul language was used at a public meeting. Working replaced Bender and Murrey on the facility study team. For the record, Bender won a four-year seat in April along with Mayor Irwin and Working. Should be an interesting three and three-quarters years.

School overspending?

The Waukegan Community Unit School District 60 Board of Education approved its budget for fiscal year 2006, with some board members expressing concern about over-

Ryg: Opens the door for top Democrats to visit county.

Sindles: Summer vacation rekindles interest in working world.

Wood: Gets the jump for her campaign to get re-elected.

Murrey: Aims to get Rt. 12 out of dark in his village.

spending.

Associate Superintendent for Business Services Brian Luosa presented the budget during a public hearing, explaining that the district would be functioning at an overall projected deficit of $788,645.

That led board members June Maguire and Anita Hannah to express concerns over the budget earlier in the meeting, when they voted against funding the Boys and Girls Club for an extended daycare program on days when school dismissed early. The measure passed 5-2.

Correction

Dave McSweeney, Republican candidate for Congress from the 8th District, signed June 16 to support the Americans for Tax Reform Taxpayer Protection Pledge, the first 8th District aspirant to do so. Party Lines reported incorrectly last week that Kathy Salvi was the first candidate in the 8th to sign the pledge.

VIEWPOINT

Public safety costs paying off

Do you feel safe? Chances are that if you live in a typical suburban community, you don't give personal or family safety much thought. In Lake County, police protection ranges from adequate to superior. If you have a fenced yard, it's to keep children and pets in, not unwanted visitors out.

Over the state, crime is continuing to decline, showing a 3.1 percent drop in 2004. Illinois State Police figures show fewer murders, rapes and robberies. Property crime was down between two and three percent.

Because of its rapidly growing and diverse population, Lake County doesn't always track with state-wide crime statistics. Andy Anderson, executive director of Lake County Crime Stoppers, offered figures showing a slight drop in the crime rate per 1,000 population on a comparison of 2002 and 2003 reports. With the exception of theft, other categories showed slight increases.

For the reporting period, aggravated assault/robbery increased from 931 in Lake County to 932. Criminal sexual assault rose from 208 to 223.

What Illinois State Police figures available don't show is that law enforcement and police budgets are continually growing. The downward trend in crime statistics shows that taxpayers are getting a return on monies being spent on public safety.

Shrinking snack

Anyone notice how the large Hershey bar (one of the writer's favorite candy snacks with almonds) is smaller and lighter in weight by an ounce? The price is the same. Would that merchandising technique work with gasoline?

Hack over Santo

Corporate communicator Dan Friedlander knows how to stir a controversy. Following a recent Viewpoint column about the championship Cubs of 1945, Friedlander wrote Viewpoint with the opinion that Stan Hack of the '45 Cubs pennant winners was the best third baseman ever to play on the North Side. Much as I admire Ron Santo, I have to agree with Friedlander. Hack played on three World Series teams and always hit around .300 in his long career. He was a premier lead off hitter, a fact that cost him in batting percentage considerably.

mine if you may be suffering from depression, bipolar disorder, anxiety or post-traumatic stress disorder. The screening program is designed to raise awareness about depression and to offer help for those struggling with the problem. For more information, call the Health Center at 847-543-2064.

Reward of $35K offered in murder

Lake County Crime Stoppers, the Crime Stoppers of Quad Cities and the Moline Police Department are seeking information regarding the heinous murder of Jone Knapton.

Jone Knapton's body was found in the Green River just outside Geneseo, Ill. on July 10, 2003. This was three days after she was reported missing from her East Moline, Ill. home. Family and community members have raised $34,000 in a reward fund and Crime Stoppers of the Quad Cities have added $1,000 to make a total reward fund of $35,000 to anyone with information that leads to the arrest of the murderer. A special task force was assembled and they are asking that anyone with information regarding this heinous murder call the Lake County Crime Stoppers at 847-662-2222 or the Crime Stoppers of the Quad Cities at 309-762-9500.

The Grayslake village board approved a study to consider whether the village can run the park district programs and how to proceed if a referendum was approved to dissolve the park district.

The controversial move sparked accusations by Park District President Sharon Desjardins that Mayor Pat Cary had long sought to dissolve the park district.

The reasons for the study, according to trustee Peter Mule, was a rising tax burden and the fact that many residents had approached him to ask how park district programs could be run more efficiently.

Many people in staunch support of the park district were in attendance.

A "social pecking order" of the Chicago suburbs was released by Pierre de Vise, an urbanologist at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus. The ranking was determined by median home value, median family income and percent of families with incomes over $25,000. Only suburbs with populations of 2,500 were included, ranked from one to 201.

Here's how some Lake County suburbs stacked up in the rankings: Libertyville (34), Mundelein (79), Grayslake (89), Gurnee (95), Lindenhurst (102), Wauconda (109), Antioch (132), Waukegan (148), Fox Lake (173) and Round Lake Beach (196).

Networking, educational event for women business owners

Women business owners of Lake and McHenry counties have the opportunity to participate in a half-day event designed to connect them with the information and resources to help grow and enhance their businesses.

The second Illinois Women's Economic Development Outreach Tour will be coming to Grayslake, at the College of Lake County, on Oct. 11.

WEDO is composed of an influential group of women leaders including business owners; local, state and federal representatives; bank officials; and representatives from economic development institutions and other women-focused organizations. The event will offer participants an in-depth look at developing business plans, building a team of business advisors, financing growth, the benefits of being certified as a women business enterprise, and e-commerce solutions.

"The vision of the Women's Economic Development Outreach Tour began with a single thought - to simply provide those resources that would directly impact women-owned businesses and increase opportunities for business expansion," said Beth Blom, vice president for National City and WEDO coordinator for Illinois. "Today's partners believe in this vision, the power of small business, and the incredible power of women business owners."

Registration for this event is now open. All proceeds of the $25 registration fee will benefit the National Breast Cancer Foundation. Interested women business owners should register at www.e-magnify.com. Space is limited and registration will be granted on a first come, first serve basis.

Re/Max keeps top spot

The RE/MAX Northern Illinois network remained the market-share leader in Lake County during the first half of 2005. RE/MAX agents listed 30.8 percent of all homes sold in the county based on sales data available through the Multiple Listing Service of Northern Illinois (MLSNI) and the MAP multiple listing service. Home sales reported by the MLSNI and MAP totaled 6,883 in Lake County during the first six months of 2005. That is an increase of 8.2 percent over the 6,363 homes sold during the same period last year.

The top five real estate organizations in Lake County during the first half of 2005, in terms of sold listings, were RE/MAX with 2,122 (30.8 percent), Coldwell Banker with 1,155 (16.8 percent), Century 21 with 796 (11.6 percent), GMAC with 561 (8.2 percent) and Baird & Warner with 459 (6.7 percent). Data maintained by the MLSNI and MAP may not reflect all real estate activity in a specific market area.

During the first six months of this year, RE/MAX ranked as Chicagoland's market-share leader, listing 22 percent of all homes sold. RE/MAX has held that leadership position for each of the 11 years since the MLSNI first made market-share data available. MLSNI and MAP data for the first half of 2005 also reveals that RE/MAX listed 27.6 percent of all homes sold in the Chicago suburbs.

CONDELL MEDICAL CENTER

Condell hosts presentation by nationally known pediatrician moms

Whether you're a first-time parent with a newborn or a seasoned veteran mom with several children, come be entertained and enchanted as you renew your passion for motherhood.

Condell Medical Center's keynote 2005 Women's Pearl of Health lecture, "From Birth to Reality," an evening with up-and-coming celebrity pediatricians and authors Laura Jana, MD, and Jennifer Shu, MD, takes place Tues., Oct. 11, at 7 pm, at Libertyville High School, 708 W. Park Ave. Tickets are $10 each and may be purchased in advance. The evening also features free drawings, giveaways and author book-signing. Although the doctors have been featured in parenting magazines and news media nationwide, their forthright style will make it seem like they're your girlfriends who just happen to be pediatricians.

The presentation will include child-rearing tips in the areas of eating and nutrition, sleeping, travel, school and child care, as well as common health questions and concerns covered in Dr. Shu's first book, "Baby & Child Health."

They also will highlight their new book, "Heading Home with Your Newborn: From Birth to Reality," covering topics such as what to do when "poop happens," breastfeeding and a "formula" for success, bathing "slippery when wet" babies and learning to "think outside the house" when you become overly immersed in kiddie land.

Book purchase and signing will take place following the presentation. To purchase tickets, call Condell's Medical Center Health Institute at (847) 990-5770. Go to www.condell.org to register to win one of the author's books.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

My child is 8 years old and I understand that he is a terror in the classroom. My husband and I are wondering if he might just be bored and acting out because of that. Is it wise for us to ask the teacher to change things in the classroom for him. In other words, make it more challenging for him or make it more for his needs? G.Z.

Dear G.Z.,

While I believe that kids should be in the correct academic placement for their abilities, and I think a little bit of extra work if finished early would be o.k., I am strongly against the idea of changing settings or environments around kids. Custom making or making special circumstances around a child who is misbehaving, for that misbehavior, is telling that child that the world will change for his or her every need. This is a dangerous concept to teach our kids and will impede their ability to function normally as an adult when situations are usually never custom made for people. I will go so far as to say that I believe that too much of this is going on in our country already and is some of the reason behind the huge growth in overindulged bad behavior we are seeing from kids. Plain and simple, kids need to learn to control their behavior and attention in changing environments. These skills can be practiced and improved instead of changing the environment.

When kids misbehave, we do need to assess the situation, and make sure that we have the appropriate educational placement, limits, consequences and expectations set up. We need to do this without the child knowing that we are running circles around him. He needs to feel important, but not overly important or more important than other kids.

Why changing the classroom environment may not be the best answer in behavior

One good example of a contrived situation that makes me nuts is when a child who is acting out is required to sit right in front of the teacher's desk so the teacher can keep cueing him or her to get back on track. That situation is sending a strong message to the child that he or she needs to have another human being in front of them at all times for him or her to keep control of his or her behavior. I have worked with enough out of control kids and the parents of those kids to know that even the kids that seem to need that constant human intervention really do not need that if the right system of behavior change is employed constantly and correctly. It is very important that the child learns to behave because of his or her own need to, rather than due to the fact that another person is there to bring them back to subject. That person will not be there for the child's entire life to bring him or her back to task and therefore, it is a bad habit to set up. It is a simple case of dependence on self versus dependence on others.

If we want to do right by our kids, our entire job as parents and teachers is to train them and have them practice for the adult world they will have to live in everyday. The hard part about this is that we live in an adult world that does not usually change to the every need of every adult in it. We all have needs and we all get bored. As a matter of fact, most of us find much of the tedious grueling parts of our work boring and sometimes intolerable, but we still need to do them. Even if we love most of our work, there are still jobs to be done that are not fun and not entertaining. We still need to do them. We can do this, because somewhere along the way, we learned how to handle ourselves in school etc. in spite of our boredom. We learned to continue our work in spite of our needs. It was expected that if we behaved anyway. It also helped that if we didn't do it, there was usually something worse waiting for us. I can remember being in 4th grade and getting caught fidgeting with opening a pack of gum and putting a piece in my mouth. We were not allowed to chew gum in school. How barbaric, huh??? Anyway, the punishment was having to put the gum on my nose and stand in the corner for a 1/2 hour, in front of the rest of the class. After the punishment, guess how many more times I repeated the behavior? Back then it was called good limit setting. Good punishment. Memorable punishment. Today it would be called a lawsuit for humiliating the child. When I think about that, it doesn't surprise me about how much misbehavior we have going on in our society by our kids. It makes me sad for them.

The difference I see now is that I rarely see good behavior required from kids regardless of the situation. What I see more often is immediate diagnosing and changing of the circumstances around the child. I see labeling of the child and overblown sympathy for the child because of that diagnosis. I see adults running around the child trying to change everything around the child instead of helping the child learn the self-control required. Instead of training the child how to handle the boredom or how to keep on track anyway, we quickly whisk the child into a new circumstance or recommend medication. This does not always help the child completely. It just prolongs the problem.

All kids get bored sometimes. All kids misbehave when they get bored. This is how they make a boring situation more fun. It's a fact of life. We all did it! It didn't mean we were not in the right setting or not challenged enough. It did not always mean that we had ADHD. Some things are interesting and some things, by nature, are boring, however, we have to learn to handle them all. I watch kids everyday learn how to handle their behavior effectively even in the face of monotonous boredom. Not only is it absolutely possible to train kids to attend even when they're bored, I will go as far as saying that it is absolutely imperative for all kids to learn how to do this before age 10. I have seen some of the worst behaving kids come in and learn through correct limit setting and practice, how to do any work they are asked to do.

I don't mean to sound gruff, however, I get very worried for the kids today. I see them being very aware of all the diagnosis names and use them very readily when they don't want to do something or do not want to be held responsible for something. This is so dangerous to their futures I can't even express fully how much.

My thoughts are these: Make sure of their capabilities. Make sure their placement is correct. Make sure you know what you are doing to set the right limits. Make sure to follow through on your limits. Make sure that your child is held responsible for bad behavior always. Make sure your child does not know about any work you are doing to improve his or her behavior. They should not be able to identify themselves by the 'problems' they have. This will become their reason for not being able to do things correctly. They should also not feel that lots of adults are dancing around them to make things easier for them. Bad move when it is done. It puts them in the middle of their own diagnosing and can be used by them later.

Give them the tools to be successful. Do not give them the means to find excuses for bad behavior. It's that simple.

surface quickly," he said. "It's a generational thing that is coming back full force."

Rose made a point of saying that adults in a shopping mall can be intimidated by a group of young people who are throwing down gang signs.

"That's what it's like on a school bus or walking. There is an intimidation or fear factor in schools when you're a victim. These issues cross boundaries and have to be overcome and we have to stay on course," Rose said.

"If we don't stay focused on this issue, we'll lose again," Ryg said. "We can't use funding as an excuse to not do this."

"We have to look out for the future and these kids are our future. That group has to grow," she said.

In addition to school sports and school activities, area members have had some creative ideas with positive outcomes.

County and local organizations that have successfully created new options include Southlake Educational Center's Treasure Chest of Stories, Gurnee Park District, YWCA of Lake County, Girl Scouts - Illinois Crossroads Council, Warren Township Teen Centers, Bullysafe, Uhlich Children's Advantage Network, The Lake County Local Area Network, the Lake County Juvenile Officer's Association, Lake County Superintendents, Lake County State's Attorneys Office, Illinois Afterschool Alliance, Boys and Girls Club of Lake County, Metro Achievement Center North, Midtown Educational Foundation and Say YES! to Youth Success.

Lake County Superintendent of Schools, Royce Lee Wood, supported the coalition and said many schools have financial problems in their school districts.

"We can't use 1960 budgets in 2005," Royce said. "The county is going to be at great risk if they don't start passing some of these referendums. There are about 140,000 students in the county and there is a lot of inequity in the finances because they are based on property taxes."

"As long as we do it that way, we're going to have problems," Royce said. "Lake County district spending varies between $6,000 and $20,000 per student. We need to realize wholesome activities are needed in all communities

The Lake County Boys and Girls Clubs in Waukegan serve kids from 6- to 18-years-old. In the program 45 percent of the children come from homes that have an annual income between $15,000 and $25,000. However, out of those children who stay in the program, 60 percent go to college and 52 percent say the club saved their lives.

Some high school students and graduates indicated they wanted to do their share by helping. Some do so by becoming role models.

"I can reach out to peers and tell them about drugs, abstinence and alcohol," one member of the model team said.

At St. Martin De Porres High School, a new college preparatory school, students pay for 70 percent of their tuition by working five days a month. One school student said she wanted a higher learning experience, and at St. Martin De Porres, teachers can spend more time with their students since it's not all taken up by children who misbehave.

The Latino Alliance has a family literacy program called "Treasure Chest of Stories" and the entire family writes a family book in Spanish and English. It was held in the College of Lake County solely in order to make students and parents aware of it. A bonus came about in that some of the parents decided they wanted more education themselves.

Warren Township runs two teen centers. One is in Park City and the other is in the Newport Township building, both offering a atmosphere where teens are free to 'drop in.'

"All of these programs make a difference," said Chuck Balling director of Gurnee Parks and Recreation.

"I'd like to see a Teen Reach in every community," he said.

As for the business of the Coalition, about 30 board members were elected at the end of the meeting. The officers of the Coalition include Lisa Shepard as treasurer; Liz Nelson and Theresa Loerch as secretaries; Connie Willegal a, Mary Penich and JoAnn Carpenter as co-vice presidents; Ryg and Rose as co-presidents.

In addition to sharing ideas that worked, members all seemed to leave with increased fervor.

Herniated Disc?

Lindenhurst, IL -According to a recently released Herniated Disc pain relief report, most people suffering from a herniated disc have no idea how to eliminate their pain. # Grappling with success

Already a national Judo champ, 15-year-old
Michael Delima isn't stopping there

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

For all those who laugh when someone says size doesn't matter, take one look at 15-year-old Michael Delima. A Warren Township High School sophomore, Delima stands at a towering 5-foot-6 and tips the scales at 112 pounds. So when he steps into the practice ring at Gurnee Judo Club to take one someone half a foot taller and 100 pounds heavier, he doesn't stand a chance, right?

"Never judge a book by its cover," said Tim Schultheis, Delima's coach, a third-degree black belt and owner of Gurnee Judo Club. "I weigh 100 pounds more than him and I've been in Judo for 30 years, and he throws me around."

But Delima doesn't only beat people who tower over him. He's also quite adept at picking on people his own size. Competing in the 112-pound division at the U.S. Junior Olympics in Atlanta over the summer, Delima rolled over the competition to win the gold medal, taking nearly all of his seven matches by "ippon" or pin.

It was just the latest in a line of national championships for Delima, who has been competing since he was 9. He's won or placed in at least three dozen tournaments and has six national and international titles to his credit, according to Schultheis.

'He's (Michael Delima) one of the most gifted young students I've ever had. He just fell in love with the sport right away and it started to define him because he did it so well.'

Tim Schultheis
Delima's coach and owner of Gurnee Judo Club

For Delima, the satisfaction he had after winning the latest title was more about the journey than the destination.

"It felt great to win (at the Jr. Olympics) because I worked hard for a year at it," Delima said. "But I love to train. The workouts you do really help you keep in shape."

Having already accomplished so much at a young age, you'd think Delima would be satisfied to call himself a national champion.

However, his recent success has only increased his appetite to move up the ladder. Now he's training to become a world champion, with hopes of making the U.S. team for the upcoming PanAm Games, set for March in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He's currently an alternate.

The biggest challenge of Delima's career so far isn't any battle on the mat but one with the scale.

"He really needs to add some weight," Schultheis said. "He's pretty small for a kid his age, and he's giving up 10 to 15 pounds to every opponent, which is a lot in this sport."

Since school began in mid-August, Delima has undertaken a rigorous training regimen, which includes three days of weight lifting per week, with the hopes of gaining 10 pounds by next summer. His training also consists of two days a week of "rondori" or sparring and two days a week of technical work.

"I need to train harder," Delima said. "And it's already working, because I can tell I'm gaining muscle."

He's also gained something else — confidence.

"I have a lot of confidence now, which really helps in tournaments," Delima said. "And wrestlers (at Warren) are always trying to get me on the mat, but I just shake my head and walk away because I know I'll win."

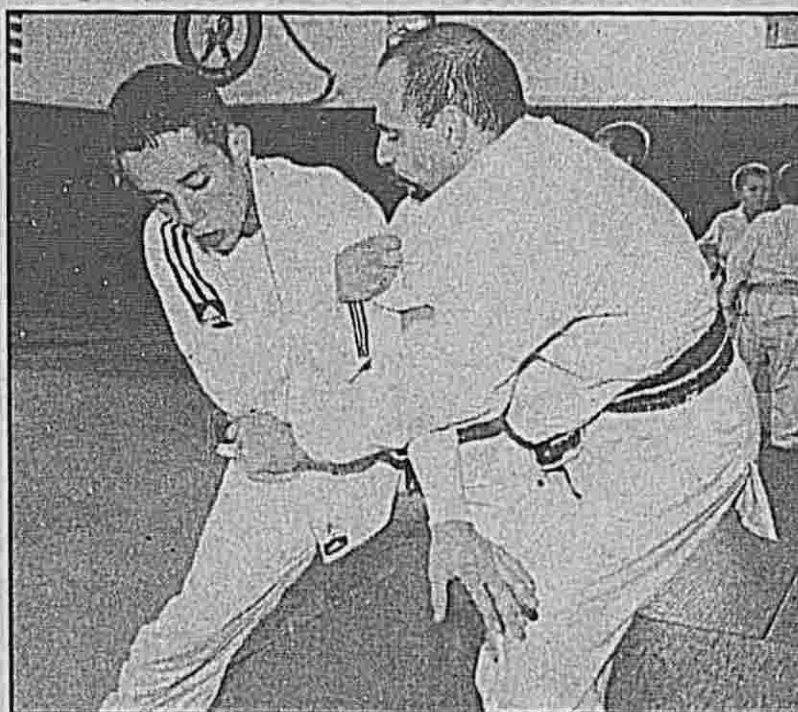

Wrestling and judo are strikingly similar, according to Schultheis, with two major differences. "Judo is all about throws and takedowns," he said. "But in Judo you can win by submission with an arm- or chokehold and you wear a looser uniform than in wrestling, so gripping strategy is a big part of any match."

Although he's among the nation's best, it was almost by luck that Delima took up Judo in the first place. He had just moved to Gurnee from Waukegan, and his neighbor happened to be Schultheis, who had just moved from Barstow, Calif., and wanted to start a Judo club. Delima was his first student.

"He's one of the most gifted young students I've ever had," Schultheis said. "He just fell in love with the sport right away and it started to define him because he did it so well."

"It's like any other sport," Delima said. "If you're good at it, you can't stop. I'll probably never give it up."

Despite the fortuitous start to his Judo career, it's actually in his

It's not easy being big

In the annals of tired old sports adages, there's one that hits pretty close to home for me: "You can't coach size." Of course, when this statement is translated into coach-speak, it roughly means, "Gigantor should come in handy."

Personally weighing in at 6'6" and 265 pounds, buying clothes and fitting into compact cars has never been easy for me — and it makes me worry about some of the athletes that I've observed who find themselves in a similar position.

In my quest for people of the "larger persuasion," I've found a fair number of area guys who should make recruiters drool and the rest of the population shake.

First, I'll start with the guys who sound kind of like me. Grayslake Central's Joe Pawlak comes in at 6'6" 255 while Warren's senior lineman Chris Riley is Pawlak minus an inch and adds five pounds. Mundelein's got a pair of 6-foot-4-inches in sophomore Joe Semple and senior Stephan Mathis but Semple's got the nod in the weight department with 250 to Mathis's 240. Finally, Carmel's 6-foot-7, 262-pound junior defensive lineman Dan Clinton and I probably shop at the same stores.

Then there's the guys that you might not find on the basketball court, but can induce some fear nonetheless. Antioch's 6'1" dynamic duo of T.J. Musich and Howard Muehlnickel aren't nearly as tall as some of the others, but at a respective 336 and 325 pounds, I know I wouldn't want to line up against them. Round Lake Panther Kyron Conley also finds himself at 6'1", but 315 is certainly a rare number on a high school roster. Warren Blue Devil Jon Person also makes the list with a 6'2", 290-pound roster entry.

Finally, there's the downright massive — the rare specimens who not only wrote the book on how to grow vertically, but spent the time in the weight room and carried the right genes to make themselves into absolute beasts. Waukegan's 6-5, 295-pound Lucas Oleson would make me clutch my purse in a dark alley while Grayslake Central's 6-5, 280-pound Tom Dernick should negatively affect the bowel control of some Ram opponents this season.

So, with my little list of some of Lake County's biggest, the average player stacks up to be about 6'4" and 282 1/2 pounds — blood. His father, Eugenio, studied Jujitsu and Judo while living in his native Brazil, where Judo is a national sport.

And given Delima's proficiency in the sport, you'd think he was a black belt. But you'd be wrong.

"I'm a brown belt right now, and it's up to my teacher to decide when I become a black belt," Delima said. "But it's not really a goal of mine. I care about winning nationals and competing in the PanAm Games, I don't care about belts."

Schultheis said the necessary criterion for becoming a black belt includes regularly defeating older competitors and having those competitors be black belts themselves.

Delima said his ultimate goal is making the U.S. Olympic Judo team, and Schultheis said that he wouldn't be surprised if it happened.

"Flyweight is 60 kilograms (138 pounds) and he'll be one of the top-5 competitors for the Olympic trials in 2012," Schultheis said.

Even if he should fall short of that goal, Schultheis said Delima definitely has a bright future in Judo.

"Not only is he an outstanding competitor, he's also a great part of our coaching staff," Schultheis said. "He coaches the little kids (4- to 12-year-olds) and he does a great job. He's very patient and technically sound and a great role model for the kids."

SIDELINES

not half bad for a bunch of kids in northern Illinois, eh? Now, being so big might worry some of these young men.

Fear not, my fellow glandular disorders. My comical stature has afforded me with opportunities some of my Lilliputian cohorts could never enjoy and it could do the same for you.

First of all, it's given me job opportunities that some would never even dream of. Throughout my life, whenever any of my friends needed a proverbial forklift to carry all of their largest and heaviest furniture, I was the first to know about it. During my tenure at Indiana University, whenever any of my bookie friends (such as my college classmate and fellow Lakeland Newspapers reporter Matt Pera) had some thumbs to break, hey, fuhgetaboutit!

It's even allowed me to make lots of good friends. Whenever I needed a ride, or, for that matter, anything else from anyone, all I had to do was "ask" and it was like I knew them all my life. After all, nothing says "best friends forever" like the fear of God in a person's eyes!

I just want to give a shout out to some special Lake County high school athletes to let them know that even though your pants might not fit and your prom dates may come strictly out of fear, the times will be good on the figurative football field of life.

Rams starting to believe

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

Grayslake used to be an afterthought, not only in the Fox Valley Conference but also to most teams in Lake County. After all, the Rams have only 12 combined wins the last two seasons and haven't won a regional in more than a decade.

What a difference a year makes.

With nine wins, Grayslake has already surpassed last season's total of seven, with half the team's matches still remaining. More importantly, the Rams are no longer an afterthought.

"It's great that we're a respected team now," senior Jill Smart said. "We were always expected to lose, so now the pressure is all on our opponents not to lose to us."

Smart has been a major part of the Rams' resurgence as the team's leading hitter. And her transition from a tentative sophomore to a dominant senior has been nothing short of amazing, according to head coach Jeanna Beerbower.

"I used to yell at her to hit the ball hard," Beerbower said. "She was so tentative. Now she just pounds the ball. But she's also a good passer and plays great defense on the back row. She's just good."

Smart isn't alone in gaining her coach's praise, as Beerbower also lauded the efforts of Janice Johnson, Megan Patterson, Lauren Walters and especially Ashleigh Swearingen.

"Janice works so hard for me. She sets a 99 percent, serves in the 90s and is our best defensive player. She's the girl I use as an example when I talk to the younger girls," Beerbower said. "Megan does everything right and I know I can get a kill from her. And Lauren is getting a lot better at the net."

"Ashleigh's not the quickest player, but you want your outside hitters to be powerful and she definitely does that well."

However, it's not Swearingen's play that Beerbower loves most.

"She's the funniest person on the team," the coach said. "I've never met anyone that says so many random things. I love having her on the team."

Like Smart, Swearingen has also undergone a major change in her three years on the team.

"I used to be so hard on myself," Swearingen said. "But now that I'm a senior, I'm having more fun and I'm enjoying it a lot more. This team is so great; we all get along so well."

Now that the Rams have earned the respect of other teams, only one thing remains according to Beerbower.

"I believe in the girls and they know that I do," she said. "But they aren't completely to the point where they believe in themselves. But they're getting there and I think that we can challenge for a regional."

CARMEL

They say whatever doesn't kill you only makes you stronger. Carmel coach Sarah Yeager is a big believer in that philosophy,

'It's great that we're a respected team now. We were always expected to lose, so now the pressure is all on our opponents not to lose to us.'

Jill Smart

Grayslake senior middle hitter

especially since her team has overcome some tough losses to sit just one game below .500 at 9-10 heading into the season's second half.

"We really had some hard-fought losses early, but I think it's made us stronger," Yeager said. "Now the girls know what they have to do to win those close matches. The girls are hungry and it's showing in practice."

Carmel finished second in last weekend's Blue Devil Invite at Warren, defeating Wauconda (25-16, 25-23), McHenry (23-25, 25-19, 25-15) and Bradford (28-26, 25-14) and losing to Tremper (19-25, 16-25) and to host Warren in the finals, 18-25, 19-25.

"We're so close to beating the really good teams in the area," Yeager said. "Warren's a great team; we just broke down defensively and couldn't hit around their block."

The Corsairs have been bolstered by the strong play of several individuals, including Colette LeClaire, Pam Stanton, Kaitlyn Howard, Erin Thelen, Megan Jousupait and Rachel Monterascelli.

"Colette has had a great year. She's one of those players who never says die; a great captain," Yeager said. "Pam and Kaitlyn have done a good job at the net and Erin has done a good job on defense; she doesn't give up on balls."

"Rachel and Megan have been awesome setters. They're only 5-5, but they make up for it with their ability to communicate and run the court."

With half the season remaining, Yeager hopes her team can not only reach 20 wins for the second straight year, but also improve upon last season's 1-8 mark in the ESCC. The Corsairs already have a huge conference win over Benet to their credit.

"That win over Benet really boosted our confidence and helped turn things around," she said. "We're doing everything we can to keep a winning record this year."

LIBERTYVILLE

Heading into the week, Libertyville had been largely inconsistent on the season and was several matches under .500. One match may have changed all that, however.

Last Friday, the Cats took on NSC Lake foe Lake Zurich and shocked the Bears in two straight games, 25-19, 25-21.

"(It) was a huge win for us," Libertyville coach Chris Trzyna said. "We worked well as a team and we played a solid match in every phase of the game."

with a 5-0 record. The Cats topped Palatine (25-20, 25-21), Prospect (25-12, 25-14), Lake Park (25-21, 25-8), Maine East (25-11, 25-20) and Wheeling (22-25, 25-16, 18-16). The victory over Lake Park gave Trzyna her 500th career win.

"We're putting all the pieces together," Trzyna said. "Everyone is stepping up their game and contributing."

Amanda Lugge led Libertyville (11-9) with 36 kills and seven aces. Carol Kruckman (22 kills, 28 blocks), Mallory Purtha (16 kills, 16 blocks), Siena Baldi (13 kills, 8 digs, 3 aces) and Allison Bailey (64 assists, 5 digs) also had tremendous efforts for the Cats.

MUNDELEIN

Mundelein coach George Dressen knew he had a young, inexperienced, but potentially talented squad heading into the season, so the first-year coach opted to keep the team's highly competitive schedule, which is among the county's toughest.

So while the Mustangs' 0-6 start wasn't entirely unexpected, neither is their recent run of seven wins in their last 11 matches, including a 20-25, 25-22, 25-21 victory over NSC Lake opponent Warren last Friday.

"It was such a wonderful win for us," Dressen said. "I knew we were potentially a team to be reckoned with, we just needed to build confidence and believe in each other. I think this win will be a huge stepping stone for us."

Kelli Boich led Mundelein with seven kills and three blocks, while fellow middle hitter Heidi Haubrich had five kills and four blocks.

"Our middles (Boich and Haubrich) have been dominating with their blocking and offensive ability," Dressen said. "Over 50 percent of Kelli's balls are kills."

Of course, the duo wouldn't have nearly as many kills without the strong play of setters Emily T'Niemi and Paige Tortorello, who combined for 16 assists, 10 digs, five kills and three aces against Warren.

"Paige and Emily make a good pair," said Dressen, whose team runs the 6-2, two-setter offense. "They both have very good hands and excellent set selection."

The Mustangs have also benefited from the dramatic improvement of Stephanie Smith. Against Warren, Smith had three kills, five digs and two aces.

"She was making a ton of errors, but she's really played under control lately," Dressen said.

Dressen also credited the win to a pair of three-set losses to Lake Forest last week.

"We should have beat them twice, but we had a few letdowns," Dressen said. "And the girls decided not to let that happen again. Everything's come together since."

Although his team is currently under .500 at 7-10, Dressen has high hopes for this season and beyond.

"We're going to make a strong push in the state tournament," he said. "But we're going to be so strong next year."

Just Ask Bob

Being 56, I have lived, worked and gone to school in Grayslake almost my entire life.

Once a sleepy farm town, Grayslake has emerged as a vibrant, wall-to-wall housing mecca for the Chicagoland urban sprawl.

When I was a boy attending grade school on Lake Street and Route 120, a classmate of mine was Bob Wickersham. Like myself, Bob has remained in Grayslake his entire life. He's been custodian at the schools and has done odd jobs in and around Grayslake for 45 years.

Bob knows a lot about Grayslake and like Grayslake, he's friendly to a fault. If you enjoy a good listen to someone who, as I say, knows Grayslake better than just about anyone, then come and just ask Bob.

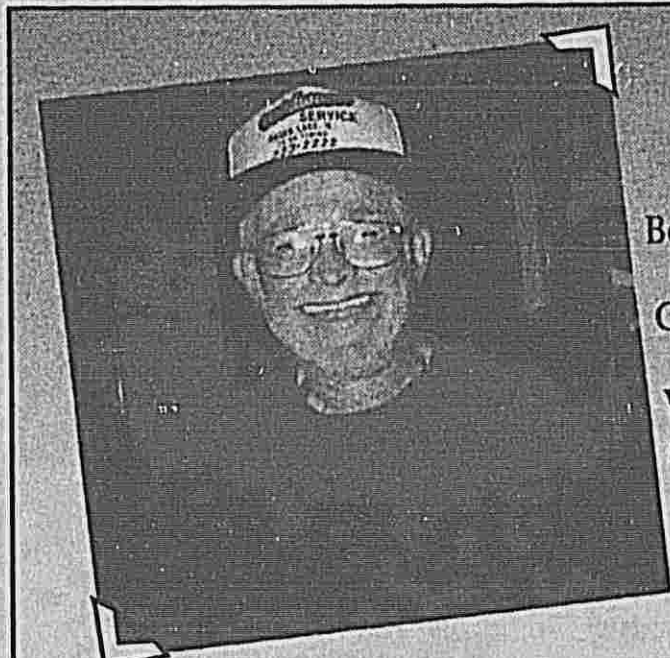

Bob will be in Pat's dining room for visits between 6-8pm on Fridays during the month of September. So, come in and just ask Bob!

Kennedy's a big hit

Libertyville junior's play helps Cats down North Chicago

By Rob Backus

After each game, Libertyville's coaching staff hands out its "Golden Hammer" award for the best hit of the week. Junior Ryan Kennedy likely clinched it less than six minutes into last Friday's game against North Chicago.

After forcing the Warhawks into a punt on their first possession, Kennedy took the field for the return team and laid a ferocious block on a North Chicago player to help spring a long return into Warhawks territory.

His de-cleating blow fired up the entire Libertyville sideline, and set the tone for the game as the Cats went on to win 30-6 in the team's NSC crossover.

"That hit really pumped us up," senior Mike Culberson-Fehling said. "A big hit always seems to spark something for us, because then everyone else wants to get some."

And if Kennedy's early hit wasn't enough, he added an encore performance in the third quarter.

Kennedy took a swing pass out of the backfield from QB Cameron Turner (7 for 18, 137 yards) and made his way toward the goal line, where he was met by a North Chicago player. The defender went low for the tackle, but Kennedy went lower and reached the end zone for the 15-yard score to put the Cats up 21-0 with 1:13 left in the quarter. The defender lay on the ground for several minutes after the impact.

"I just had to get low and get in because I wasn't going to go around him," said Kennedy, who caught four passes for 69 yards. He also had a 10-yard TD run in the second stanza.

The Cats' defense had plenty of hits of their own, sacking North Chicago QB D.J. Brown four times and adding several punishing blows after Brown got rid of the ball.

"We had a great rush tonight, almost every play," said Culberson-Fehling, a starting defensive end. "Their quarterback was quick, but we kept him in the pocket pretty well."

Brown got loose in the second half, hitting Darnell Clay for a 15-yard score in the final minute of the third quarter. Down 24-6 after a 42-yard field goal by Libertyville's Zach Criswell, North Chicago put together a 78-yard drive and was threatening to make a game of it with the ball at the Cats' 2-yard-line. However, Kevin Green fumbled the ball at the goal line and it was recovered by Libertyville's Bobby Boatman at the two, sealing the win.

"With our backs at the goal line, we did what we needed to do to win the game," Libertyville coach Randy Kuceyeski said.

"We've been getting better and better on defense each week."

Kuceyeski's claim is backed up by the numbers, as the Cats followed up a shutout of Mundelein in Week 3 by allowing only 13 points to Lake Forest last week and less than 40 rushing yards to the Warhawks on Friday.

"Everyone's been contributing on defense," Kennedy said. "It feels great to know that it's a strong point for us because defense wins championships."

The Cats added insult to injury — literally, as Green, a Division I prospect, was noticeably hobbled after twisting his knee in the first quarter; and another North Chicago player was taken off in an ambulance — when they took the ball after the fumble and went 98 yards for the insurance touchdown, culminating with a 42-yard bomb from Turner to Culberson-Fehling.

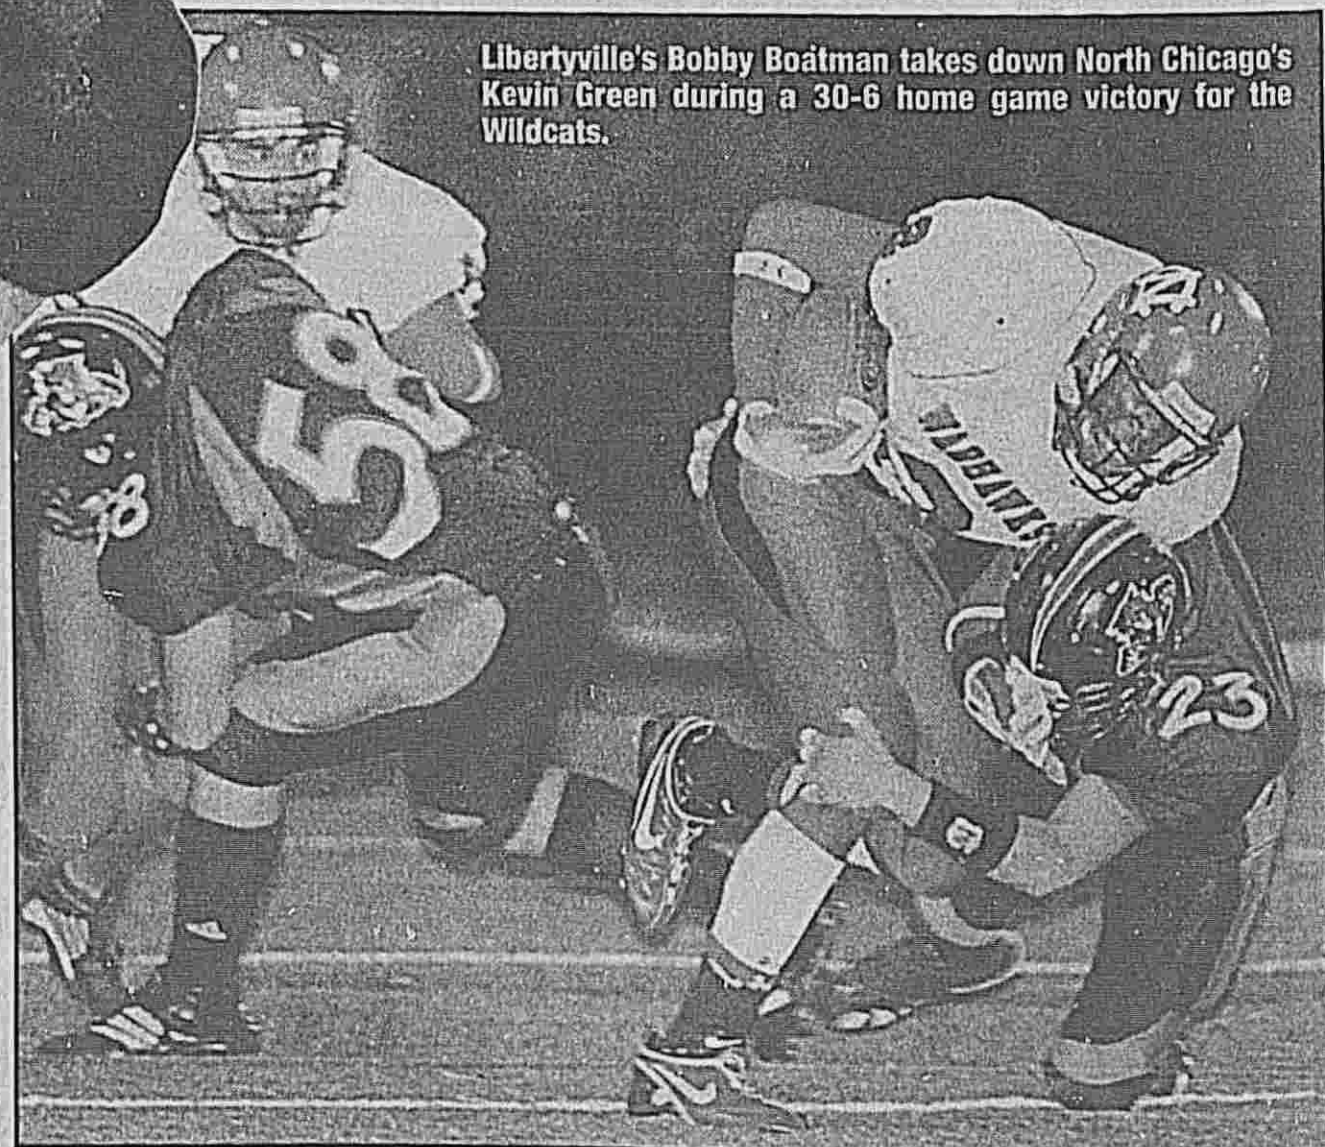

"He's (Turner) been talking about getting me more touches the last three weeks," Culberson-Fehling said. "He threw me some nice slants in the second half and that (touchdown) pass was perfect; it went right through the defender's hands and into mine."

With starting back Josh Albers out with an ankle injury, senior Eric Cusek was at the forefront, leading Libertyville with 79 yards on 10 carries, including a 36-yard jaunt in the first quarter to open up the scoring.

After the 42-21 loss to Naperville North in Week 2, a game Culberson-Fehling termed as a "wake-up call," the team has seemingly improved in every aspect of the game in their following three contests, all Libertyville wins. And the improvement couldn't come soon enough as the Cats (4-1, 3-0 Lake) prepare for a homecoming showdown with Lake Zurich on Saturday. Stevenson and Warren, which are both undefeated, also remain on the schedule.

"They (Lake Zurich) knocked us out of the quarterfinals (in 2002), so we have something to settle with them," Kuceyeski said.

Libertyville's Bobby Boatman takes down North Chicago's Kevin Green during a 30-6 home game victory for the Wildcats.

Vernon Hills 41, Round Lake 0

Although there may be few highlights for a team's defense in a 41-0 loss, the Round Lake Panthers may have found one against the silver and blue dark cloud that ruined homecoming.

He is junior Jeremy Schadrack, who made several strong plays as the game wore on and field conditions worsened in the Panthers' loss to NSC Prairie foe Vernon Hills on Saturday.

"He came out late for the team, but he has worked hard. He is someone that the offense will have to neutralize," Round Lake coach Doug Moss said.

Vernon Hills' ground game won out on a muddy field at Round Lake's homecoming. The Panthers (1-3, 0-2 Prairie) now look to mess up the Grant High's homecoming plans in an Oct. 1 clash of rivals in Fox Lake.

"Since the win over Maine East, we have become less and less disciplined," Moss said. "We had 10 to 12 penalties, and that is way too many. We do have a young team and a lot are playing football for the first time."

The Panthers never could find the answer to running back Vince DeFrancesco, QB Rajee Harris and the Vernon Hills defense. The Cougars (2-0 Prairie) churned out more than 300 total yards as DeFrancesco scored from four and three yards out and Harris from four and 32 yards, with the visitors scoring all six TDs on the ground. Even an hour's rain delay due to nearby lightning strikes could not stop the Cougars, as they scored 14 points in the third quarter after the delay.

"We're not very big, but they were beasts on both sides of the ball," Moss said.

VH coach Tony Monken described the win as workmanlike.

"As long as I've been in football, the team with the better offensive and defensive line usually wins," he said.

Round Lake juniors Eric Watts and Isaiah Gardner had five and four catches, respectively, from junior QB Mike Ortiz. Round Lake was held to 166 total yards, though, and had only eight first downs. The game marked the return of running back James Nowell, who was out with an ankle injury.

Come Oct. 1, the Panthers defense will have to stop the likes of Matt Behm, Ricky Howell, Joe Barczak and a senior-dominated Grant team.

Hope for the future may exist in Round Lake, as the freshmen and sophomore football teams won their homecoming clashes.

Grant 41, Lakes 0

Standing at the wrong end of a 34-0 deficit at the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Lakes Eagles were trying to stop the bleeding when Grant junior running back Damen Mantis was pinned in the backfield and fumbled the ball. Mantis not only regained possession of the ball, he then proceeded to elude Eagles defenders for a gain of 20 yards on the play.

Such bad luck set the tone for Lakes High (1-4, 1-1 NSC Prairie) in its inaugural homecoming game last Friday night. The Eagles laid an egg in the contest while the Grant Bulldogs (4-1, 3-0 Prairie) put up 41 points of their own to take the Prairie Division contest.

The homecoming loss marks the second straight week the Eagles have been shut out, to the tune of Lakes opponents outscoring the young team 97-0 in the last two weeks. While the 41-0 end result was certainly disappointing, the Eagles were in the game for much of the first half.

The team was trailing 14-0 after forcing a Grant punt with 11 seconds to go in the first half, but Eagles QB Richard Fisher threw a lofting pass over the middle that Bulldogs linebacker Matt Behm picked off to return for the 40-yard defensive touchdown to end the half.

Behm was stellar in the contest, intercepting two Lakes passes and rushing for 73 yards on 18 carries and two touchdowns in addition to his defensive score. Behm wasn't the only Bulldog giving the hosting offense fits as Jon Schild, Rob Walsh and Kraig Wicinski all recovered fumbles in the second half. When it was all said and done, Lakes ended with -19 yards of total offense in the latter half.

Bulldogs quarterback Rick Howell certainly did his part to preserve the victory as he ended the game with 123 yards on 19 carries and two rushing TDs.

Grant coach Mark Barczak attributed the second half surge largely to Behm's interception at the end of the second quarter.

"This game is such a game of momentum and when we got that touchdown at the end of the first half, it really turned us around," Barczak said. "I tip my hat to Lakes; we're happy with the win because that team should be tough in the future."

Lakes coach Luke Mertens was not unhappy with the hustle his team displayed in the game. Instead, Mertens attributed the loss to inexperience across the board for the Eagles. With a starting lineup that includes six sophomores and no seniors, the Lakes team has been a work in progress for Mertens and his staff.

"I don't think it's from a lack of effort, it's just that we go into panic mode every time the other team makes a good play," Mertens said. "We've come out strong in every one of our games and we push the other teams, but as soon as they push back, we can't cope with it."

AREA ROUND-UP

Antioch 18, Wauconda 16

When Antioch junior Brad Fortney went down with a neck injury in a Week 3 loss to Grant, the team held its breath that the two-way starter wouldn't miss another game. After Fortney's absence was obviously felt in a 41-21 loss to Vernon Hills in Week 4, the Sequoits breathed a sigh of relief when he returned to practice last Monday.

Fortney's performance in his first game back, Antioch's 18-16 homecoming win over Wauconda last Friday, was simply breathtaking — both for the fans in attendance and for the unfortunate Wauconda players who tried to tackle him.

In all, Fortney finished with 201 yards on 20 carries, and scored a touchdown in the win. He also blocked a potential game-winning 27-yard field goal from Wauconda's Anthony Sentella, who made a 35-yarder earlier in the fourth quarter.

Junior Tom Sulton had Antioch's other two scores, from two and four yards out, as the Sequoits rolled off more than 300 yards on the ground.

Wauconda (1-4, 0-3 Prairie) was in the game throughout thanks largely to its aerial assault, which amassed more than 250 yards in the loss. QB Brett Glavey had a pair of touchdown passes, including a 60-yard strike to Kris Gehrke (6 catches, 119 yards) and a 12-yarder to Davis Mills. Jimmy Williams also had six receptions for 100 yards.

Antioch (2-3, 1-2 Prairie) will travel to Zion-Benton this Friday, while the Bulldogs will take on the Cougars in Vernon Hills, also on Friday.

McHenry 35, Grayslake 0

Rainy weather, poor special teams and a powerful McHenry running attack ruined Grayslake's homecoming, a 35-0 loss to the Warriors last Saturday.

McHenry scored both of its first-half touchdowns on drives starting in Grayslake territory after a pair of short punts. In all, the Warriors ran for more than 250 yards against the Rams defense, while Grayslake (0-5) managed just 158 yards of total offense, led by Brett Miller's 48 yards on eight carries.

St. Viator 35, Carmel 24

After four straight weeks of running over the opposition, Carmel suffered a role-reversal last Friday against St. Viator. On this night it was the Lions, led by Pat McAvoy's 155 rushing yards and three TDs, who ran wild over the Corsairs to the tune of 414 yards of total offense in a 35-24 win.

Carmel (4-1) didn't have a poor game on offense, but its 294 yards were far below the team's season average. Junior Jimmy Potempa led the Corsairs on the ground with 118 yards on 20 carries, while QB John Brennan had a pair of touchdown passes, to Cory Stonelake and Chris Wienke.

Things won't get any better for Carmel this Friday when undefeated Joliet Catholic, the state's No. 1-ranked team, travels into town.

Warren 41, Lake Zurich 16

When Warren's Matt Mose hauled in a 46-yard TD pass from Joe DeVries just minutes into the game, which was followed by a 97-yard Lake Zurich kickoff return, the game had all appearances of a shootout.

The Devils did their part, racking up 41 points and more than 350 yards of offense, but their D allowed only one more touchdown to the Bears in a 41-16 win over Warren's new NSC Lake foe last Friday.

Mitchell Moore led Warren with 93 yards on 18 carries, but it was backfield mate Marvin Bembry (9 carries, 71 yards) who stole the show with a trio of touchdown runs. Senior Marcus Lewis, who committed to Northern Illinois University only hours earlier, hauled in four passes for 101 yards, including a 20-yard score.

Warren (5-0, 3-0 Lake) travels to Lake Forest for the Scouts' homecoming game on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Maine South 42, Waukegan 8

Waukegan fell to 0-5 on the season after allowing 42 first-half points to visiting Maine South in a Central Suburban League showdown last Saturday at Weiss Field. The Bulldogs' lone score came on a 16-yard strike from QB Justin Forsythe to Anthony Ochoa.

Cats remain perfect on season

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

With so much emphasis placed on running in a pack, rarely can one individual be credited with winning a meet for their team. But that's exactly what happened in a Monday NSC Lake showdown between Libertyville and Lake Forest, according to Cats coach Harry Carlson.

The Scouts' Regan Grumley and Libertyville's Anne Strychalski were at the front of the line at Adler Park, with Lake Forest's Ally Grumley and Claire Brikhauser close behind. But that's when sophomore Maureen "Moe" Jones made her move.

"Moe really turned it on down the stretch to catch those two runners," Carlson said. "She won that race for us."

Jones finished ahead of the aforementioned Lake Forest duo with a time of 19:33 on the three-mile course, good enough for third place overall. Teammates Hannah Reilly, Erica Mientus and Jackie Hamlin rounded out the top five times for Libertyville, which topped Lake Forest 26-29.

"They (Lake Forest) ran a really good race, we just had kids who tried really hard to compete with them," Carlson said.

The win helped Libertyville remain unbeaten on the season, with only Mundelein left on the NSC schedule before the conference meet and postseason. And Carlson expects his team to do well on all fronts.

"As long as everyone stays healthy and focused, they have a great opportunity to do well," Carlson said.

Libertyville may have lost to the Scouts on the boys side, but the meet wasn't without some outstanding individual performances. Tim Taylor finished first overall in a time of 16:16, while teammate Josh Schweigert took fourth in 17:05 as the Cats fell 36-23. Louisiana transfer Andy Christopher continued his strong running for Libertyville, finishing eighth in 17:27.

"He's (Christopher) really making a difference for us, because we were looking for that third runner," head coach Mark Buesing said. "We wouldn't have a chance without him. And Tim's been running some great times for us; I'm really pleased how he's developed into a leader."

"Josh is already a leader as one of our captains and he's a quality No. 2 runner and a quality kid."

Buesing also lauded the efforts of Ted Strychalski and Pete Pasini, who will have to step up if Libertyville hopes to make it out of a regional that includes Stevenson, Lake Forest, Barrington and Highland Park.

Saturday's Roy Gummerson Invite, held at Schiller Woods in Chicago. Antioch had three runners in the top-25, including Ryan Oliver (15th, 16:32), Dakota West (20th, 16:47) and Mike Dussault (21st, 16:47).

The Sequoits followed that up with a triangular meet sweep of Wauconda and Lakes on Monday.

"We started off slow, but we've gotten progressively better," Antioch coach Dave Judson said. "If we keep getting better, we might make the top-3 (in the NSC meet)."

On the girls side, Antioch took 11th on Saturday, led by Jen Naegele (33rd, 20:09) and Sarah Brown (46th, 20:43).

GRAYSLAKE

Both Rams teams fared well in last weekend's J.T. Invitational, hosted by Grant, as the boys finished first with 26 points and the girls took second with 55 points, despite missing top runner Morgan Jacquette, who was taking the ACT.

Alex Mikrut was Grayslake's top finisher on the boys side, taking second overall with a time of 16:47. He was followed in the top-10 by teammates Scott Beckord (3rd, 16:55) and Andy Gerken (7th, 17:19). Michael Zantello was 11th in 17:24 and Nick Lane finished 17th in 18:02 on the three-mile course.

"A strong 1-2 punch was our springboard to success," Grayslake coach Joel Peebles said.

On the girls side, sophomore Sarah Johnson became the first Grayslake North athlete to lead the varsity team in a race, finishing ninth overall in 21:43. Leyna Squillaci (13th, 21:53), Jessica Duhig (15th, 21:58), Colleen Centella (16th, 22:01) and Sarah Rokosh (17th, 22:10) finished closely behind Johnson.

"Each girl improved their time since the Lake County Meet was held on the same course earlier in the season," Peebles said.

WARREN

Despite missing Sarah Ramp and Kelly Seebach to ACT testing, Warren managed a solid seventh-place showing in last Saturday's Roy Gummerson Invite, hosted by Oak Park-River Forest. Freshman Heather Olson had an outstanding fourth-place time of 18:26, with teammate Lauren Delfeld also finishing in the top-50, taking 41st in 20:27.

"Heather has been such a surprise for us," Warren coach Cheryl Anderson said. "She had run track at Woodland, but had never run long distances. I think she has the capability to make it to state."

With Olson, Delfeld, Ramp, Seebach, Julia Hiett and Sarahbeth Jones all capable of putting up solid times, Anderson hopes her team can make a strong showing in the postseason.

"We're now learning to run together as a pack, which is so important," she said. "It's like a fist. It takes five fingers to make one, and the more you pack it in, the harder it will be for a team to beat you."

"Hopefully we can get that down and peak before regionals and sectionals."

WAUCONDA

Potentially, Wauconda has one heck of a 1-

2 punch at the top of the lineup in Dani Connor and Katie Ellis. That is, if the two can remain healthy. Ellis is still recovering from an off-season stress fracture and Connor has been battling shin splints for the last three years.

If the two can go for the Bulldogs, head coach Al Willhoit likes his chances to not only repeat as Prairie champs, but to also make it to sectionals and possibly to the state meet at Detweiller Park in Peoria.

"We're plagued by injuries right now, but we'd still like to finish the season in Peoria," Willhoit said. "We're going to try and get over these hurdles and make a statement at the (NSC) meet."

Willhoit said that Shannon Kimes and Samantha Pancamo continue to put up solid times as the team's third and fourth runners, respectively, while Annette Hansen and Sam Michelau continue to battle for the team's fifth spot.

Devils remain in conference hunt

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

Once again, Warren has rolled through the regular season and has already earned the sectional's No. 1 seed. But instead of preparing for the postseason, which is just two weeks away, the Devils still have a regular season goal in mind.

After topping Mundelein 5-2 on Tuesday, Warren moved to 3-1 in the NSC Lake, trailing Stevenson by a half game, with Libertyville and the Pats still on the schedule. If it seems like a case of déjà vu, it is.

Last season, the Devils went into their match-up with Stevenson needing a win to clinch the division title, but a scoreless tie gave the title to the Pats. And now Warren again controls its own destiny in the conference.

The biggest question Warren coach Jim McNamara had of his team was how it would respond to adversity. The Devils finally got a taste of some in an unexpected loss to Lake Zurich two weeks ago. But they've since responded with three straight convincing wins, including a 3-2 triumph over Wisconsin power Muskego on Saturday.

"We just struggled that day against Zurich. We didn't handle the pressure well and just didn't do many things right," McNamara said. "But we sat down and talked about things and we handled it well on Saturday against the No. 10 team in Wisconsin and then we handled it today (against Mundelein)."

The Devils actually faced a bit of adversity against the Mustangs. Anthony Colaizzi had put Warren up 1-0 when Mundelein responded with two straight goals to take the lead. However, Colaizzi then found Bryan Bappert for the equalizer and then proceeded to score three more goals of his own.

"We controlled the game the first 12 minutes but then we gave up two quick goals, which was irritating because we had worked on our defense on Monday," McNamara said. "But we made some changes and brought four subs in and they responded. It just shows the depth we have right now."

"We don't lose anything when we go to the bench."

It also shows just how Warren (12-2) has gotten things done thus far — with teamwork.

Despite having a high-powered offense that's averaging three goals per contest, no one player's stats are eye-popping. Colaizzi currently leads the team with 13 goals, and Ian Sarachan leads the team in assists with nine.

"We're so unselfish," McNamara said. "Ian and Anthony Colaizzi are working well together and Luke Schweitzer's doing a great job all over the field."

"Bryan Bappert's starting to pick it up, Dominic Pellitieri, Taylor Holop and Art Arizmendi are doing well, and Ricky Kinka is phenomenal out there with his smart play."

GRAYSLAKE

The Rams just won't stop. With a 2-1 win over Jacobs on Tuesday night, Grayslake improved to 4-0 in the Fox Valley Conference and 11-4-1 overall. It was the team's 10th victory in its last 11 matches.

Manny Carrillo scored his 11th goal of the season, while Nolan Sandberg added his seventh.

Grayslake also ran past Grant 6-0 in a non-conference match-up on Monday. Tommy Biesaida recorded his seventh shutout of the season. Tony Gianneschi scored a pair of goals, while Carrillo, Sandberg, Glenn Shoreman and Ryan O'Connor had the Rams' other tallies.

The Rams drew the No. 8 seed in last

Chris Sell

Wednesday's Libertyville Sectional seeding meeting.

MUNDELEIN

Sometimes a team can be a victim of its own success. That's exactly what's happened to Mundelein, according to head coach Chris Sell.

"We've had some success, but now the guys are trying to do too much instead of playing within themselves," Sell said. "Success is good because it gave us confidence, and success is bad because it gave us confidence."

Prior to last Thursday, the Mustangs had been perfect on the season, going 8-0-1 in their first nine matches. Then Mundelein was blindsided 5-3 by Lake Forest, and a 5-2 loss to Warren on Tuesday effectively ended any hopes of a NSC Lake title.

"I'm happy with our record, but the questions and concerns I had are still there, which is how will we respond in big games," Sell said. "And we didn't respond well today (against Warren). We lacked poise and there was too much ball-watching."

Warren took an early 1-0 lead, but Mundelein came right back with goals from Bill Doyle and Erik Navarette to take a 2-1 advantage. However, the Mustangs allowed the tying tally to Bryan Bappert and Anthony Colaizzi scored two goals in the final eight minutes of the first half to take a 4-2 lead into halftime.

"We were eight minutes away from going into halftime tied 2-2 and making some adjustments," Sell said. "But 4-2 made it a completely different half and we couldn't respond."

With little left to play for in the regular season, as Mundelein drew the No. 4 seed in the Libertyville Sectional, the team will now focus on improving and fine-tuning for the postseason, Sell said.

WAUKEGAN

When Waukegan coach Mike Berrie outlined his team's goals prior to the season, there was no mention of competing for a Central Suburban League title. Even though the Bulldogs had been much improved in recent years, including winning a regional title last year, the CSL contains perennial powers Evanston, New Trier and Glenbrook North, three teams Waukegan seldom beat.

But the Bulldogs got one of the biggest wins in Berrie's tenure with a 2-1 triumph over Evanston last Thursday. Jesus Lopez scored both Waukegan goals and then added two more in a 5-1 win over Deerfield on Tuesday. He now has 26 on the season.

"Everything's just clicking for us right now," Berrie said. "That win was right up there with beating Warren and Libertyville last year. It was the best I've seen this team play."

Waukegan is a team that usually peaks in the second half, and after a mediocre start the Bulldogs now sit at 9-5-1 overall and 4-2-1 in the CSL, right behind Evanston, which still has New Trier on the schedule. Waukegan closes out its CSL schedule with Niles West on Thursday.

and that signature laugh

Left our world to be with his good buddy, Max
Leaving behind his son, Justin Carl, 13;
and his many friends and loved ones
he held most dear.

*I won't stand at your grave and weep
You are not there—nor do you sleep
You're in the many winds that blow
The sparkle of new fallen snow
You're the sunlight rays on fields of grain
The freshness of a springtime rain
You're with quiet circling birds in flight
That special sparkling star at night
I'll not stand at your grave and cry
'Cause you're not there—You didn't really die
Your spirit lives on within my heart
A guarantee we'll never part
I'll miss you forever.*

ATTENTION PET OWNERS We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals

If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Networking Gets Jobs

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Whether or not you're looking for a job now, building a network that will help to find a job is important. At a recent business meeting, I asked each person to share the primary reason he or she was hired for his or her current position. My unsolicited survey showed 57% were hired directly because of the efforts of a friend or family member. Another 22% said that an acquaintance had contributed to the hiring or that a friend or family member was a contributing factor.

All told, 79% of the people at that meeting have their current job because of the efforts of some other person. Do you want to be prepared for your next job search? Make more friends and treat them well.

In addition to helping a job search, building relationships can be its own reward. Yet, for those who are shy, those who have not had much opportunity to practice building new relationships, and those who do not know where to start, gaining new friends can be daunting.

If networking does not come naturally for you, start in a safe environment if possible, where you already have a common interest. If you currently attend a church, join a committee, a bible study group or a breakfast club. If your children play sports, talk to some of the other parents about the game and about their children. This can even be done at work. Go to lunch with some of the other people in your department. Even if you eat in the company cafeteria, you can decide to sit at a table with others rather than sitting alone and reading a book.

Once you have started to meet others, stretch the discussion to other topics. In the church group, ask others about their family, job or interests. As you get to know them, the conversations will naturally become more personal. This is where many people back off. Yet the goal is to become more transparent in order to build a solid, trusting relationship.

There will certainly be some awkward discussions. Prepare for them. Identify the most uncomfortable questions that someone might ask. Then, prepare an answer for each question. Those who document the questions and answers will create a list of prepared thoughts that can be used continually.

You will make mistakes. As the relationships grow deeper, there will be more opportunities to offend others. Everyone does not share your values. That does not mean that you should say what others want to hear. It only means that you need to be sensitive to their feelings and their principles. Yes, you can build a friendship with those who are not like you.

In every situation where you have offended someone, there is one phrase to remember: "I'm sorry" opens the door for healing when others have been hurt. Be specific. "I'm sorry for that crass statement that I made yesterday." "I'm sorry that I asked that question. It was too personal and I could tell that you were uncomfortable."

Those who persevere and learn to cope with the discomfort will learn valuable lessons about interpersonal communications. They will also build new relationships. Finally, those friends may be the key to your next job.
